THE LOSSES PAID

On the Pacific Coast under the Massachusetts Law by the NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL Life Insurance Company, of Boston, amount to OVER SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

THE MAIN POINTS OF THE LAW UNDER WHICH THESE CLAIMS WERE PAID.

No Insurance on Life shall be forfeited by non payment of premium.

The net value of the Policy shall be ascertained at the time of the lapse of premium, and be considered a net single premium of temporary insurance.

If the death of the party occurs within the term of temporary insurance, the Company shall be bound to pay the whole Policy, the same as if there had been no lapse of premium; provided the Company shall have the right to deduct from the face of the Policy the amount of premium due, with interest, at the date of death.

THE NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Was Incorporated in 1835. It has accumulated

Assets of $10,000,000.00.

This Company charges no more for Premiums on its insurance, than those companies that have the unjust clause "pay promptly or forfeit," embodied in their policies.

These works have now been in successful operation for the past twenty years. From a comparatively small beginning in the year 1850, its increasing patronage has each year demanded enlarged facilities, until our establishment, in all its appointments, will compare favorably with that of any similar one in the country.

Our terms, in variety and extent, are unsurpassed; embracing the latest improvements in all classes of machinery, adapted to use on this coast. Our several departments are well equipped with skillful workmen, and efficient tools; enabling us to execute all orders entrusted to us promptly, and in the most workmanlike manner. With ample facilities for doing work, as also for procuring our supplies from first hands, we are enabled to give our customers first class machinery at prices frequently paid for inferior work. The most skillful designing and engineering talent, applying to the various branches of mechanical work, constantly at the service of our customers.

Orders for all classes of Machinery, Castings or Boiler Work, promptly executed at the most reasonable rates. Sole Agents for HUNTON'S PATENT GOVERNOR, the best Engine Regulator in use.

Particular attention given to Steamboat and Steamship Work. Mining and Hoisting Machinery of the most approved construction. Depot for the HANSBROW PUMPS.

We have fitted up a Foundry for the exclusive manufacture of Cast Iron GAS AND WATER PIPE by Farrar's patent process. This pipe is superior to any of Eastern or European manufacture. The leading sizes kept constantly on hand.

STENCIL PLATES

CUT BY

F. M. TRUWORTHY,
318 Front Street,
 SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

STENCIL PLATES, when handsomely executed, present the cheapest and best mode of advertising that can be adopted. This is the experience of all who use them.

STENCIL PLATES OF EVERY PATTERN cut at this establishment in a style unequalled by any other workmen in California.

Merchants and others are invited to call and examine specimens in proof of the above assertion.

Orders from abroad, as well as those given in person, promptly executed and forwarded. Parties sending orders by letter are particularly requested to WRITE PLAINLY and give the EXACT SPACE THEY WISH THE LETTERS TO OCCUPY.

By close application and superior execution of work during an experience of thirteen years, Mr. TRUWORTHY has extended his business to its present proportions. His present facilities for rapid and tasteful execution of all work in his line are far superior to those of any other in this State or in the Union.

Having purchased all the late John Hall's Stencil Tools, Plates and Impressions, and everything pertaining to his business, I am prepared to furnish his customers with fac-similes of his work.

PACIFIC STONE COMPANY

Ransome's Patents,

For which the Commissioners of the International Exhibition of 1862 awarded the Prize Medal.

A Gold Medal was awarded by the Mechanics' Institute of San Francisco, 1871.

NATURE OF THE MATERIAL.

This remarkable material, which is essentially different from any other which has yet been submitted to the public, and which can be produced in blocks or forms of any dimensions, is suitable not only for the construction of solid masonry, but also for the manufacture of the most elaborate and delicate architectural embellishments.

It is a hard, durable and beautiful sand stone, which so closely resembles the best descriptions of our natural stones that it is not easy to distinguish between them.

It can be produced of various colors.

The stone is composed of clean siliceous sand, or other suitable substance, firmly aggregated into a solid and hard mass by the means of silicate of lime, or of other insoluble silicates.

PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE.

The process of manufacture is simple, although based upon the most scientific principles. The sand, silica, or other mineral substance, is intimately mixed with its proper proportion of a solution of silicate of soda. This is effected in an ordinary pug mill, and the mixture which is thus rendered of a plastic consistence, is either pressed or rammed into blocks or moulds, or it can be rolled into slabs or forms, as may be desired, and is afterward saturated with a solution of chloride of calcium, when a double decomposition of the two solutions employed (viz, of the silicate of soda and the calcium) immediately takes place. The silica combines with the calcium, and at once forms an insoluble SILICATE OF LIME, firmly enveloping together all the particles of sand, or other minerals of which the stone is composed, whilst at the same time the chlorine combines with the soda, and forms chloride of sodium, or common salt, which is removed by subsequent washing.

COST OF PRODUCTION.

The cost of production for mouldings or other ornamental work is much less than that at which natural stone can be procured. The principal item of expense in such work is the preparation of the moulds; but when a repetition of the same articles to any extent is required, or when they are made out of our stock moulds, the proportionate cost of the mould chargeable upon each article would be inappreciable.

GENERAL ADVANTAGES.

The Ransome Stone, while exhibiting the characteristics and appearances of the best natural freestone, is more durable and can be produced of any desired tone of color.

It can be moulded into any form, or made in masses of any dimensions.

It requires no artificial drying or burning.

The cost for moulded and ornamental work is much less than that of natural stone.

The stones can be made hollow as readily as solid, thus lessening the cost of carriage, and giving great advantages in overhanging cornices and in the decoration of wooden structures.

That whilst most of our natural building stones are rapidly acted upon by acid vapors and the atmosphere, particularly in populous towns, to such an extent as to produce disfiguration and decay in a comparatively short period, the "Ransome Stone" is not only unaffected by such influences, but gradually increases in hardness with the lapse of time; and the opinion expressed by some of our most eminent chemists and geologists is, "that Mr. Ransome has invented a material which, with the exception of the granites, is better capable of giving permanency to external architectural decorations than any stone hitherto used."

6th. In point of strength, the "Patent Concrete Stone" has been proven to be far superior to Portland Stone, or in fact, to any of the natural stones with which it has been tested.

IRON AND STEEL WIRE ROPE, — AND — WIRE OF ALL KINDS.

ESTABLISHED 1857.

Office and Depot, No. 519 Front St.

SOLE PROPRIETOR OF THE

PATENT ENDLESS ROPEWAY,

[Wire Tramway,] for transporting Ores, etc., over mountainous places.

Agent for Pacific Wire & W. R. Manufacturing Co., of California,
AND OF
Rich'd Johnson & Nephew, Wire Manufacturers, of Manchester, Eng.

MINING COMPANIES, FERRYMEN AND SHIPMASTERS

Are informed that Wire Rope can be furnished them considerably under the cost of Hemp or Manila, of equal strength.

Wire Rope does not stretch or shrink by change of weather. It weighs 40 per cent. less than hemp, is less than one-half the diameter; is easily spliced under all circumstances; is as pliable for equal strength; and is from four to five times as durable as the best Hemp or Manila Rope.

FOR HOISTING FROM DEEP MINES, the economy of its application is immense.

The Wire from which my Ropes are made is manufactured in San Francisco by the Pacific Wire Manufacturing Company, from the very best of stock.

NOTE.—STEEL WIRE ROPE weighs about 6-10th of Iron Rope, or $\frac{1}{2}$ of Hemp of equal strength. Its extreme lightness saves largely in freight to remote places, and its great durability recommends it for hoisting purposes, etc. See table of comparative weights, strengths and sizes of Steel Wire Rope.		Iron Wire Rope.		Hemp Rope.		Working load of each.

ENDLESS WIRE ROPEWAY,

[Wire Tramway,] secured by numerous Patents.

By means of the Ropeway, ores, rock and other material can be transported over mountainous and difficult places, where it would be impossible or exceedingly expensive to build a road. It can deliver from 5 to 50 tons per hour, according to capacity; and being carried upon posts above snow and other obstructions, can be used when other modes of transportation would be impossible.

TOLAND MEDICAL COLLEGE, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The regular Course of Lectures of this Institution commences on the first Monday in June, and terminates on the 31st day of October. A preliminary course will also be given, commencing on the second Monday in January, and continuing up to the commencement of the regular term. During this course, two lectures will be given in the College building, from 10 A. M. to 12 M., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. On the alternate days, viz: Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, public clinics will be held in College from 10 A. M. to 12 M.

During the entire year, the students will have an opportunity of visiting the various hospitals of the city, under circumstances which will enable them to observe medical and surgical treatment. The Faculty desire to call attention to the following local advantage:

The singular characteristics of our climate are such, that every branch of Medical Study can be prosecuted during the entire year. In winter or summer, dissections can be made without detriment to the health of the student.

Fees and Regulations.

The aggregate Fees of the Professors for a full term.....	$130 00
The Matriculation Fee (this fee is paid but once).....	5 00
The Graduation Fee.....	40 00
The Demonstrator's Ticket.....	10 00

Requirements for Graduation.

- 1st. The candidate must be twenty-one years of age.
- 2d. He must have attended two full Courses of Medical Lectures, one of which must have been delivered in this Institution.
- 3d. He must have attended a Course of Practical Anatomy in the dissecting room.
- 4th. The candidate must have studied Medicine for three years (the terms of attending Lectures included), under the direction of a respectable medical practitioner.
- 5th. He must write a Medical Thesis, and submit the same to the Faculty two weeks prior to the commencement.

Graduates from other Medical Colleges, in good standing, are required to Matriculate only.

Boarding.

Students can obtain good Board in the city, at prices varying from five to ten dollars per week.

Application for further information may be addressed to the Dean.

CITY

Paving Company,

OFFICE, S.W. COR. MONTGOMERY AND COMMERCIAL STS.

Mill, Cor. of Fourth and Berry Sts.

This Company contracts for Street Paving of every kind which is accepted by the City Authorities of San Francisco, but makes a specialty of paving under the patent known as the "STOW FOUNDATION PATENT," which they claim as the best known wooden pavement. In proof of this assumption, they are prepared to exhibit certificates from the most celebrated engineers in several of the largest cities of the Union where this style of pavement has been introduced.

The great superiority of this pavement over all others, lies in its mechanical construction, and not in the materials used. Experience has clearly demonstrated in this city, which material can be safely used, and which should be rejected. All objections which have yet been urged to the Stow Foundation Pavement attach to the quality of lumber used, and not to the construction of the work. The following extract from the report of the Committee on Pavements at the last Industrial Exhibition in this city, speaks for itself, to wit:

"For general practical use and public benefit, we do not hesitate to pronounce the Stow Foundation Pavement, exhibited by the City Paving Company, together with the actual tests of its durability, as presented by the wear and tear in the streets of San Francisco, to be superior to all others, when taking into consideration the method of laying it, the time it has been laid, the form of its construction, and by an honest comparison with others which have been submitted to the same test.

We award to it the First Premium. Signed,

EDWIN A. SHERMAN,
JOHN V. HUNTER,
Committee.

Certificates showing the superiority of the Stow Foundation Pavement over all others ever introduced into this city, were furnished to the City Paving Company by his Honor, Frank McCoppin, and the entire Board of Supervisors during his last term of office, and by his successor, the Hon. Thos. H. Selby, and eleven out of twelve of the Supervisors during his term of office; and though some objections have latterly been urged to this Pavement, it is plainly manifest to any one who will investigate the subject, that the fault lies entirely with the quality of materials used, when objections lie at all. To no sample of this pavement laid with "Black Heart Redwood," has there been a word of objection yet raised, and it is proposed to use this quality of lumber in future, unless the property-holders, by express petition, request otherwise.

The fact is not generally known, but it is a truth nevertheless, that the objections so often urged to wooden block pavements, because of their swelling and bursting up in humps, apply to the pavement laid under the Nicolson Patent, all of which, however, would have been remedied by a moderate expenditure in sprinkling the streets during the long dry season; the fact having been clearly demonstrated that no defects of this kind have shown themselves upon streets which have been sprinkled, as for example, Kearny Street and Montgomery Street. The damage does not arise from the swelling of the blocks themselves, but by the foreign substance which is held between the shrunken blocks when they swell to their original size.

OF CALIFORNIA.

Office and Salesroom, No. 238 Montgomery St.

ONE DOOR FROM PINE,
SAN FRANCISCO.

The Maxim Gas Company especially invite the attention of the public and all Consumers of Gas, to our new method of producing Gas by the Maxim Gas Machine. It is entirely new, different in its construction and operation from anything heretofore offered to the public. It is simple, compact, safe, reliable, automatic, and produces a superior quality of ILLUMINATING GAS, at a cost not to exceed $2.50 per 1,000 feet.

We are prepared to furnish Machines for any number of lights desired, from 30 to 5,000 Burners, or, will CONTRACT TO LIGHT Public Buildings, Hotels, Factories, Churches, Depots, Private Residences, Mines, etc., etc., etc., in city or country.

We will verify all we promise, by putting up our machines at our expense—giving to parties the option to purchase the machine after a fair trial, or have it removed at our expense.

This Gas can be used in Ordinary Gas Pipes and Burners, and buildings thus lighted can be insured at the same rates as those using Coal Gas.

REFERENCES.

We refer those interested to the following gentlemen, who have been using the Maxim Gas Machine for months:

James Gamble, Esq., Superintendent Western Telegraph Company; J. H. Redington, Esq., President Home Mutual Insurance Company; M. J. O'Connor, Esq., of Conroy & O'Connor; George Walkington, Esq., Piedmont Springs; George H. Howard, Esq., San Mateo; H. A. Bloss, Esq., Dining Hotel, Lathrop Station, W. P. R. R.; Mills Seminary, Alameda County; City Gas Works, San Rafael.

For further particulars call at No. 238 Montgomery Street, see the machines in operation, and judge for yourself, or send for Illustrated Pamphlet.

PREFATORY.

IN presenting this, the thirteenth volume of the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY to his patrons, the compiler would respectfully invite attention to a few of the prominent features contained therein, and the many evidences of the progress and permanent prosperity of the City to be found throughout its pages.

The number of references contained in the present volume is over 92,000, as follows: Register of Names, 64,294; Business Directory, 17,238; Appendix, 11,000. The population of this City is estimated at 178,276—a gain since January, 1871, of 5,526. The data upon which these figures are based, with explanatory remarks, together with several valuable and interesting tables connected therewith, will be found comprised in the article on Population, on page 11, to which attention is respectfully invited.

The number of buildings erected from January, 1871, to March, 1872, is estimated at 920, at a valuation of over $2,500,000. The expenditures of the Department of Streets and Highways, for the year ending June 30th, 1871, amounted to $843,415. Among the buildings erected during the year are several valuable and extensive structures of a public character, and numerous elegant private residences. The total number of buildings in the City and County is 20,287.

In the Appendix will be found a variety of information connected with our municipal organization, the Consolidation Act, with the Amendments adopted to March 1st, 1872, arranged under each appropriate head, and several Acts of the Legislature connected therewith, to which has been added an analytical index, which will facilitate reference thereto. There will be also found in this department of the work a large number of references to the different organizations in this City, embracing lists of the Federal, State and Municipal Officers, notices of local Societies and Associations, Churches, Military Organizations, Incorporations, etc. Attention is invited to a new and corrected map of the City and County of San Francisco, and a revised Street Directory, including the correct system of numbering the buildings, both of which have been compiled from official sources, and carefully compared with each street and locality named therein.

The Introductory and General Review present a diary of the interesting local events of the year, brief notices of Schools, public and private, Benevolent Associations, Mining and other Incorporations, and references to the different mechanical enterprises in operation at the present time in this City, together with other subjects worthy of special mention and historical data of present interest, well calculated to make the book a valuable work of reference to future generations. But the particular features of this department of the work are a series of valuable Meteorological Observations of the climate of this City, from 1850 to 1871, contributed by Henry Gibbons, M. D., and articles on the Railroads of the Pacific Coast, and the progress of Improvements and Manufactures in this City during the past year; also a review of the improvements made from January, 1871, to March, 1872, and a statement of the number of buildings within the City limits.

The compiler would respectfully tender his thanks for the prompt coöperation extended by the different public officers, and other gentlemen who have been applied to for information for the work. To those who have refused their names, or other items of information, he would refer them to the pages of the work; they will there find, arranged in its proper order, the desired data, obtained without their assistance. To his numerous patrons for their substantial evidences of good will, and to Messrs. BACON & COMPANY, to whom the typographical department was intrusted, he would especially offer his thanks. The fourteenth volume of the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY will be issued in March, 1873.

San Francisco, March 20th, 1872.

PROGRESS OF THE CITY.

THE City of San Francisco was, for the first time, incorporated by the Legislature in May, 1850, the organization of the County having been effected in the month previous, by the election of a Sheriff and other officers, thus establishing two distinct systems of government. The Consolidation Act took effect on the first day of July, 1856. Under its stringent provisions, our municipal affairs have been administered with energy and fidelity, and a thorough reform has resulted. The enormous outlay consequent on the dual system of government has been entirely abolished or seriously reduced, while the checks upon lavish expenditure were so well devised as to defy evasion, and the contraction of debts has been inhibited. The financial history of all this is sufficiently indicated in the exhibit* of the Aggregated Annual Expenditures of the City and County of San Francisco from 1850 to 1871—since the first legislative organization of the government—exclusive of the sums paid in liquidation of the principal and interest of the bonded debts:

 † Exclusive of Mortgages, which amounted in 1869-70 to near $16,000,000, now held to be exempt from taxation.

The amount absolutely collected on is much less than the aggregate valuations for the last two years. For the year 1868-9, the delinquent list amounted to $429,709, on an assessed value of $13,500,000, in 1869-70 to $556,320, on $18,062,340, and in 1870-71 to $170,603 on $5,996,584. The small amount of delinquent taxes of 1870-71, compared with the two previous years, may be accounted for by the fact that moneys loaned on mortgages which amounted in the years named to an assessed aggregate of about $30,000,000, have been declared exempt from taxation.

The amount expended by the Department of Streets during the year 1870-71 is $843,415 against $1,248,130 in 1869-70, which, added to the sum included in the above table, $2,819,617, makes the total expenditures of the Municipal Government for 1870-71, $3,663,032.

The special Fee Fund for 1870-71 aggregated $153,685, of which the Recorder paid $44,975, the County Clerk $41,028, the Sheriff $20,552, the Tax Collector $19,244, and the Clerk of the Justice Court $9,867.

For the year ending June 30, 1871, the following amounts were paid in support of the different departments of the Municipal Government: Salaries, $353,366; Police Department, $157,218; Fire Department, $193,460; School Department, $638,001; Street Lights, $200,583; Hospital, $108,621; Alms House, $75,571; Industrial School, $36,906; Redemption of Bonds, $177,045; Interest on Debt, $225,462.

Population San Francisco, 1871-72.

THE following figures, compiled from reliable data and from careful investigations during the progress of the canvass for the San Francisco Directory for the present year, is published as an approximation to the present population of this city; and in directing attention thereto, the compiler feels assured that an intelligent and careful examination of the data upon which they are based, will fully sustain the aggregates derived therefrom.

“ Females over eighteen, estimated.....	36,300
“ Males under twenty-one, estimated.....	35,760
“ Females under eighteen, estimated.....	30,579

Total permanent population.....	173,276
To which should be added a large element of our population known as “floating,” which consists of: 1st. Transient boarders, etc., at hotels, boarding-houses, etc. 2d. Soldiers at the fortifications in the harbor. 3d. Persons engaged in navigating the bay, who claim this city as their residence. 4th. Inmates of Alms House, Hospitals, and other charitable institutions, County Jail, etc. 5th. A large number of persons who have no permanent place of abode, together amounting to about.....	5,000
Total population, March 1st, 1872.....	178,276

The estimate of the males over 21 in the above table is based upon the list of names contained in the present volume, as follows:—The number of references in the register of names is 64,294, of which 55,819 are male residents of this city. These figures are exclusive of a numerous list of names included in the Business Directory and the Appendix, containing the names of officers of Societies, Incorporations, etc., not obtained in the regular canvass, estimated at 1,200, making a total of 57,019. The two latter named departments of the Directory are compiled from information collected just previous to the publication of the work, and include many names not to be found in the regular list.

The number of females is estimated at 36,300, upon the basis of the returns of the Federal Census of 1870. The number of females of all ages enumerated, as published in this city, amounts to 61,577, of which 23,261 are under 15 years. According to the average of the Census throughout the

* For table of Revenue collected in San Francisco from 1850 to 1865, see SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY for 1866, p. 10.

United States, about sixteen per cent. of the number under 15 (3,721) should be added thereto to represent the element between 15 (inclusive) and 18, which would give an aggregate as follows: Under 18, 26,982; 18 and over, 34,595. The difference between the last named figures (34,595) and those included in the table, (36,300), amounting to 1,705, will not be considered an overestimate for the increase since August, 1870.

The estimates of the males under 21 and the females under 18 are obtained by adding to the returns of the Federal Census the increase since that work was completed, August, 1870, a period of twenty months. According to the School Census of 1870, the annual increase of children of all ages under 15, is about ten per cent. On this basis the annual increase of males of all ages under 21 may be estimated at about seven per cent., and the females under 18 at eight per cent. This will produce the following aggregates: Males under 15, (Census) 23,722, add thirty-five per cent., the average of the Census throughout the United States, for those between 15 (inclusive) and 21, 8,302. Total August, 1870, 32,024; increase, March, 1872, 3,736. Total, 35,760. Females under 18, returns of Census 1870, (see second paragraph) 26,982; increase March, 1872, 3,597. Total, 30,579.

The remainder of the data in our estimate explains itself, and to those who are acquainted with the different elements referred to therein, the figures relating thereto will not be considered overestimated.

The estimate of the present year, (178,276) as compared with that of last year, (172,750) exhibits a gain since January, 1871, of 5,526, or about three and one-fifth per cent.; this compared with the annual increase since 1860, on the basis of the returns of the Federal Census, which is about ten per cent., shows an increase much less than that of former years. An analysis of the figures contained in our table for the present year, shows that while the males and females under 21 and 18, respectively, have increased, the adults have decreased; a result not entirely unexpected, and owing principally to the depressed condition of almost every department of human industry during the past season, inducing many persons to seek other and more extended fields of labor for employment, and the demand for skilled labor occasioned by the Chicago conflagration.

The number of females for the present year, as estimated, is in our judgment much less than the actual number, but as it is based upon the figures of the Federal Census of 1870, it will not be regarded, at any rate, as being excessive.

For the purpose of reference, we republish from the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY for 1871, the figures of the Census of the City and County of San Francisco as compiled in this City, adding thereto the returns as published by the Census Bureau at Washington, and a table containing both series of "official figures," one opposite the other, a comparison of which will, when the fact is considered that they have been compiled from the same data, exhibit many remarkable discrepancies:

"The male population of this City, according to these figures, it will be observed, is 75,824 ; of this number 23,722 are under 15 years of age. No separate figures are presented of the adult portion or the number between 15 and 21, and in order to arrive at an approximation of these elements, about thirty-five per cent. of the number under 15, the ratio according to the census returns of 1860, of Massachusetts, Ohio, and Oregon, should be added thereto, and the aggregate made thereby, taken from the entire census of males, will produce the following result: Under 15, 23,722, add thirty-five per cent., 8,302 for those between 15 and 21; total under 21, 32,024, which deducted from 75,824 will leave as the adult population, according to the Federal Census of 1870, 43,800."

FETINA INSURANCE CO. OF HARTFORD, has the largest Capital, largest Assets, and largest Income of any Fire Insurance Company in America.

CURRENT HISTORY.

IN each succeeding volume of the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY we have endeavored to trace briefly the current history of a young and growing city which, within twenty-two years, has attained the fourth (if not the third) rank among the great maritime ports of the Union. A review of our labors will enable the reader to form a very accurate conception of the progress made from year to year. By reason of our isolated position, the peculiarities of our soil and climate, the sparseness of our population as compared with the area, susceptible of yielding the most copious returns in a multiplicity of natural productions, and the scarcity of appliances for developing our wealth of resources, the onward march of San Francisco has been subjected to certain arrests and halts not incident to other cities, but by no means of a formidable or insuperable character. Cool reflection will recognize in these breathing spells so many opportunities to revise what has been done, and to take measures for more solid and permanent advancement. The year 1871 was of this nature. Several causes combined to retard the rapidity of our usual progress. Two consecutive years of drought had produced a failure in the wheat crop—our staple export; the payment of Government indemnity by France caused a panic in Eastern money markets, which reacted upon our own, and induced the transmission of not less than $12,000,000 in gold from California—principally from San Francisco—depleting the amount of available funds for local improvements and the fostering of home industries. Real estate—partly from sympathy, and partly from the natural reaction attending a long period of inflated prices—suffered a serious decline; loans on the best of city property, formerly esteemed as offering the most acceptable security, were effected only on the basis of largely increased margins. The overland railroads had confronted our manufactures with those of the East, where lower rates of interest and lower scales of wages prevailed. General business was correspondingly sluggish, and the situation was not such as to entice capitalists into large expenditures for local improvements. But every cloud, however dark it may seem, has its silver lining. In many particulars, substantial, if not brilliant progress was made. Although the number of arrivals from all ports holding maritime commerce with San Francisco was 46 fewer than in 1870, the aggregate of tonnage entered was increased 5,979 tons—the total being 1,068,178 tons. The population of this State was augmented by 10,282 souls, from immigration alone; new and valuable deposits of the precious metals were discovered and profitably worked, while mines long under development exhibited larger and richer lodes than ever. The various processes for reduction had been so materially improved, that claims formerly abandoned as unremunerative were again operated with satisfactory results. In the meantime signal additions were made to the extensive reduction works in this city, and San Francisco became the exporter instead of the importer of lead, shot lead pipe and other kindred articles extracted from galena. In the same period San Francisco became the great receiving and distributing mart for the teas and silks of China and Japan, and the coffees produced in countries washed by the Pacific. Atlantic and other American cities, and Western Europe, are to a great extent investigating our capabilities for supplying them with these and other necessary articles of Asiatic production and constant demand, more readily, in finer quality and condition, and more cheaply than by any other route. The amount of teas forwarded overland—chiefly in bond—during 1871 reached the unexampled quantity of 17,829,928 pounds, against 3,104,296 pounds in 1870, showing an increase of 14,735,632 pounds in the course of a single twelvemonth. So wonderful has been the development of this important branch of commerce, that the Pacific Mail Company found itself wholly incapable to furnish the requisite transportation with all the facilities at its command, and is now constructing five first-class iron propellers, three of which are destined for this trade, to meet the quick-growing exigencies of our Oriental commerce. Our relations with Australasia have been signally improved by the inauguration of steamship intercourse which promises to be permanent and of inestimable future value. Contemporaneous with these triumphs on the ocean, remarkable energy has been displayed in providing for augmented overland commerce—the Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Atlantic and Pacific railway companies urging forward their respective roads with zeal and dispatch. This cursory review of our commercial status has been deemed necessary, as illustrating the foundation upon which our prosperity is based. Local improvements are but the results of exterior relations, depending upon them for vitality, progress and permanency. Owing to the several drawbacks specified in the commencement of these remarks, the march of local advancement was somewhat retarded in 1871, as compared with the onward strides of some other years. But, if there was a seeming decline in this particular, the im-improvements actually secured were substantial, and well calculated to inspire the fullest confidence in the growth and development of the city.

The following extract, from the valedictory of ex-Mayor Thomas H. Selby, delivered in December, 1871, will afford the reader a bird's-eye glance at several of the leading features of our internal condition during that year :

"A brief summary of the present, while it illustrates what has been accomplished, must be accepted as indicating continued progress. The population, numbering at least one hundred and sixty-five thousand, embracing all nationalities and creeds, have gathered in a little more than twenty years, while thousands from here have contributed to the growth of thriving cities and towns in neighboring countries. The corporate limits embrace an area of thirty-six square miles, having ten miles of available wharf-frontage on the harbor. The buildings number over twenty thousand, exclusive of the Federal structures erected or being built, and to which the Government will, it is believed, add others; for San Francisco, although only the tenth city in the Union in population, ranks fourth in maritime importance, having paid last year $8,000,000 into the Custom House. In the value of its commerce, this port is exceeded only by New York and New Orleans—the total amount of our foreign and domestic exports, in gold and produce, the last fiscal year, having been $64,000,000, of which $32,000,000 was foreign. The number of arrivals during the year 1871 from foreign and Atlantic ports and coastwise was 3,620. Six lines of ocean steamers connect us with the principal sea ports, north and south, and with China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the islands of the Pacific. During the last year we paid $13,000,000 in Federal taxes and duties, and our Internal Revenue tax is larger in proportion to the number of inhabitants than that of any other city in the United States. The total operations of the Branch Mint in San Francisco (where, since its establishment, $321,000,000 in gold and silver have been coined) amount to more than one-half of the entire coinage at the Philadelphia Mint since the organization of the United States Government. Occupying such a position, therefore, relatively to the national trade, finance and revenue, San Francisco may reasonably expect increased outlays by the Government. The Branch Mint now being built will be on a scale in keeping with the above figures. We also require larger and more commodious buildings for the United States Customs, Courts, Internal Revenue and other Federal purposes. Our Common Schools, eighty-seven in number, are liberally-supported—the expenditures of that Department last year having been upward of $700,000. There are forty-four large and substantial school houses belonging to the city, the remaining schools being held in rented premises. All are free from sectarian teachings, and are attended by 20,000 children. We have also sixty-three private and denominational schools, seminaries, and colleges, attended by about 7,000 pupils. There are sixty-eight churches in the city, and eighty newspapers and periodicals (daily, weekly and monthly) are published here. A city which, not many years ago, was a by-word for violence and crime, is now noted for its progress in culture and refinement, the beauty and comfort of its homes, the variety and richness of its wares, the number of its literary and educational institutions and its varied and thriving industries. The provident character of its people is seen by the great number who possess homesteads of their own, and in the substantial fact that the aggregate deposits in our savings banks amount to $35,000,000 in gold. The streets, roads and avenues improved by wood and cobble-stone pavements, macadamizing and planking, measure one hundred and twelve miles, and are lighted at night by 3,600 gas lamps, at a cost of about $200,000 per annum. Under the thoroughfares the pipes of the Water Company extend a distance of one hundred and twenty-five miles, and there are forty miles of street railroad. Of carriages, omnibuses, cars and other licensed vehicles, there are 4,800, and probably as many private conveyances. Since the close of the fiscal year 1870-'71, the Funded Debt, which was then $3,624,200, has been reduced by cancellation of Bonds to $3,106,500. Deduct $228,000, now in the Treasury, to the credit of the Sinking Fund, and there remains an actual debt of $2,878,500. At no time during the last fifteen years has the indebtedness of our city been so small, nor its credit stood so high as now. Municipal taxes are collected on an assessment roll of $100,000,000, of real and personal property, realizing about $3,000,000, of which nearly one-third is for State purposes—San Francisco contributing a little less than one-half of the revenue of California. For several public charities, including Alms House and Hospital, upward of $1,000,000 have been paid out of the City Treasury in the last five years. Of private relief and benevolent societies, some of them maintaining their own hospitals and asylums, we have about seventy, not counting subdivisions of orders."

Supplementary to the foregoing epitome of his Honor, Mr. Selby, we note the steady improvements made in the southern portion of the city, where a large number of commodious and handsome residences have been erected, all of them giving unmistakable indications of social comfort and domestic attachments. Without architectural pretension, they are, nevertheless, infinitely in advance of the tenement structures so prevalent during the first fifteen years of American occupation, and are quite equal in all respects to the suburban homes of Eastern cities. The process of preparing a public park, suitable for the future of San Francisco, was carried on with more or less vigor during the year past, and public opinion has so settled down to the necessity of having a noble resort of this kind, that its early completion may be regarded as certain. Our Senators and Representatives in Congress are also making strenuous efforts to obtain from the General Government the release of a portion, if not the whole, of the Presidio Military Reservation. With the exceptions of Fort Point and Black Point, necessary for the proper defence and protection of this harbor, the Government really has no need of any other strategic position on the peninsula, and the cession of its claims upon the Presidio will be an act of graceful courtesy to the young Queen of the Pacific, which has already done so much toward elevating the renown of American enterprise and progressive development. Directly and indirectly the Pacific coast has contributed over fifteen hundred millions of dollars, in gold and silver, to the commerce of the world within the brief space of twenty-two years. San Francisco alone, of all American cities, has maintained the flag of our country at the masts-heads of ocean-going steamers; to her is due the credit of having seized upon the most-coveted Oriental commerce, with a fair prospect of permanent retention; upon her shoulders rests the mantle of honor for inaugurating a broader and more enlightened intercourse with China and Japan, which is now culminating into proportions of national magnitude, replete with future benefits of inestimable value. Under the light of these, and similar services of no ordinary character, it would seem as if the Federal Government could well afford so small a boon in aid of her absolute requirements. Among other noteworthy improvements is the filling up of the water channel now formed by what is termed Long Bridge, at the foot of Fourth Street. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has for some time been employing a heavy force of laborers in this business, with the intention of erecting upon the made land large and commodious depots as the San Francisco terminus of the road. The new Branch Mint is also progressing fluently, and when completed will be an ornament as well as a valuable business auxiliary to the city. Congress has been importuned, by petition and by our Representatives in Senate and House, to improve the valuable Government lots bounded by Washington, Battery, Jackson and Sansom streets, by constructing thereon suitable buildings for the various Federal officials, so as to insure the transaction of business without unnecessary loss of valuable time. As similar requests have been freely granted to Chicago, there seems to be no valid reason why San Francisco should meet with refusal. Compliance and speedy action would impart a notable impulse to the valuable property in the northern portion of the city, without deteriorating from that of real estate elsewhere located, as all other sections would partake, more or less, of the benefits accruing to any one. The new City Hall, which is being erected on the large triangular lot formed by the intersection of Park Avenue, Larkin Street and McAllister Avenue, is the most noteworthy improvement commenced during the year under review. When completed it will be much the largest, most costly and noblest structure in the State, at once an ornament and an indispensable public edifice. The main building—the corner stone of which was recently laid, with appropriate ceremonies, by the Masonic Fraternity—will form three sides of an irregular triangle, inclosing a square court, which will be decorated with a fountain and appropriate shrubbery. The several frontages will aggregate 1,960 feet—having 800 feet on Park Avenue, 500 feet on Larkin Street, and 660 feet on McAllister Avenue. The average height of the structure will be 84 feet, with a central spire, over the main entrance, towering to the altitude of 290 feet. Detached from the City Hall proper, but connected with it by an open arcade, leading from the main building, will be the Hall of Records, fire-proof in all respects, with an inside diameter of 86 feet. There will be a ground floor and two upper floors, in the form of galleries twenty feet wide, besides the necessary offices for the Recorder, and his deputies and clerks. The dome of the Hall of Records will be 57 feet in diameter, supported by twelve iron columns rising from the floor of the Hall, which columns will also support the galleries. These columns will form a circle 56 feet in diameter, and be connected together by arches springing from ornamental capitals at a height of 58 feet from the floor. The center of the Hall will be open to the top of the dome, giving an internal height of 120 feet. The height from the terrace to the top of the dome will be 126 feet, and this will be surmounted by a pedestal and statue, increasing the height to a total of about 135 feet. As a detailed and minute statement of all the local improvements made during 1871 is neither expected nor possible within the range of a review like this, we shall conclude our remarks by simply alluding to the fact that the foregoing gives but a faint intimation of what has been done by the genius, enterprise and indomitable energy of the American people within one-third of the period allotted to a single generation. The peninsula on which San Francisco stands has been redeemed from a sandy waste—a howling wilderness—and has become the center of commerce, art, science, refinement and literary culture, on the extreme western confines of the American continent. Every year adds materially to its strength and vital power to overcome obstacles, to grapple with opposing forces, and to lay the foundations for a future of pre-eminent greatness.

PUBLIC PARKS.

Next to public baths, public parks may justly be deemed the most important material blessings to the people of a large city. Their sanitary influences have been the theme of laudatory comment on the part of men eminently fitted to instruct their fellow beings, but this feature is not the only one which commends them to popular favor. They produce very charming moral effects, especially upon the young, who insensibly acquire a love for nature and are imperceptibly weaned from the frivolities and allurements of a purely metropolitan existence. In addition, public parks have imparted somewhat of celebrity to the communities which have been wise enough to make provision for them on a scale proportioned to the wealth, population, and prospective growth of the place. Hyde Park, although containing but 400 acres, enjoys a celebrity little inferior to but inseparable from that of London. The Champs Elysées, the Place de Concorde and the Bois de Boulogne of Paris, are of a world wide celebrity, intimately connected with that of the gay capital itself. Boston Common has ever been one of the attractions boasted by the Athens of America, while the Central Park of New York is justly considered a prominent source of pride, pleasure, health and profit to the people of that great metropolis. It was a wise policy—instigated by the press of San Francisco—which culminated in providing for spacious and attractive public parks for the Queen of the Pacific at an early day, when the value of land is comparatively small, and the city in its youth. The reputation of these valuable belongings must necessarily add to that of the metropolis, as indicating refinement, intelligence, and public spirit, while imparting health, innocent recreation, good moral influences, and augmenting the value of property. The Legislature of 1870 passed an act providing for public parks in San Francisco, and this movement was speedily followed by the appointment of commissioners to carry out the object. The city was authorized to issue bonds to the extent of $225,000, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, the interest to be paid semi-annually, and the principal at the expiration of fifty years; but no bonds to be issued at less than par. Thus far but $75,000 of these bonds have been taken, and work has necessarily been delayed to a considerable extent, although the progress made is exceedingly satisfactory. Up to January 8th, 1872, a little over $42,000 had been expended, leaving on hand a cash balance of more than $33,000. The Golden Gate Park, as this grand enclosure has been felicitously named, contains 1,013 acres, eligibly located between the ocean beach and the northwestern suburbs of the city, and possessing all the requisites of hills, vales, lakes and arable lands to render it a delightful resort as well as a picturesque ornament. It will be intersected by a fine macadamized avenue, affording a drive of four and a half miles in length. It is nearly one mile wide, has two miles of secluded roadways, mainly for equestrians, seven miles of broad, open walks, three and a half miles of narrower and more retired rambling pathways, besides three handsome lakelets, a dressed lawn of 30 acres, a flower garden and conservatory of 15 acres, a base ball and cricket ground of 20 acres, a botanical garden of 12 acres; together with extensive grounds of a park-like description, play-grounds for children, and thickly wooded tracts intersected with a maze of walks and shaded avenues. Much progress has already been made in setting out trees and shrubbery. Over ten thousand trees of different varieties have been contracted for and will soon be adding their charms to this noble place of public resort. Among some in the nursery are fine specimens of the Monterey Cypress, Lawson Cypress, Ordinary Monterey Pine, Seaside Pine, fifteen varieties of the Eucalyptus, (Australian Gum) Cork Bark Elms, Black Walnut, Lombardy Poplar, Locusts, White Mulberry, and Maples. Great judgment and good taste have been exercised in selecting the trees for this Park—one half being deciduous, and the other for ornamental purposes. It is proposed to complete the following during the present year: The dressed ground or lawn, flower garden, conservatory, manor house, croquet or children's play grounds, plateau, or carriage concourse, botanical garden, lakes, meadow, parade, cricket or base ball ground, strawberry hill, bridges, fountains, traffic road and walks. A bill is now pending before the Legislature of the State, for the issuance of seven per cent. bonds to the amount of five hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This sum will afford the Commissioners ample funds for the prosecution and completion of this most necessary public improvement. The Board of Commissioners is now constituted as follows: Eugene L. Sullivan, Gen. B. F. Alexander, and C. T. MacDermott. In addition to the Golden Gate, there will be the Buena Vista Park, containing 36 acres, and the Mountain Lake Park, of 20 acres, each of which will be laid out so as to render it an object of attraction. It is not a vain boast to assert that at no distant day San Francisco will possess superb public parks equal to those of the largest and most ambitious American cities, with the single exception of New York; and, as has already been remarked, only second in importance to a system of well conducted public baths.

AETNA INSURANCE COMPANY, of HARTFORD, has a just reputation for fair dealings and liberal adjustments.

NEW BUILDINGS. During the past year, notwithstanding the general depression existing in almost every department of business, a considerable number of buildings, several of which of an extensive character have been erected, and active operations continued upon the several public buildings in the course of construction. The number erected from January, 1871, to March 1st, 1872, fourteen months, is estimated at 920,* of which 40 are of brick. About ten per cent. of this number replaced old or worn out structures and those damaged by fire. The most important improvements are the works of the City and Metropolitan Gas Companies, Potrero; Levison's building, Sutter Street; Olympic Club building, New Montgomery Street; Tattersalls', Sansom Street; Wormser's and Keyes' buildings, California Street, and the new Church edifices of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic, Mission Street; First Congregational, corner Post and Mason streets; First Methodist Episcopal, Powell Street; St. Peter's Episcopal, Stockton Street; Baptist Mission, Tenth Avenue near I, and the Memorial Presbyterian, Eighteenth Avenue. In addition to these, there are a number of elegant and costly private residences, several of which have been erected or nearly completed at an expense of from $25,000 to $75,000. This enumeration does not include the New United States Branch Mint, the new City Hall and the new City and County Hospital now being constructed.

Important additions to our city improvements have been made by several of the co-operative associations recently formed in this city. The Real Estate Associates, Rondel's Homesteads and the Building and Improvement Union have erected during the past year an aggregate of 45 private dwellings for the accommodation of those who prefer to own their residences by the payment of a stated sum monthly than to rent them in the usual way.

It is gratifying to notice an improved style and finish of the exterior and the many additions to the interior arrangements of the private residences erected during the past year, which must secure for their occupants increased comfort and convenience.

NUMBER OF BUILDINGS. Total, December 31st, 1869, 18,659; erected during the year 1870, 900; of this number, 100 replaced old buildings. Total, December 31st, 1870, 19,459, of which 4,380 are of brick and 15,079 are of wood. Total, March 1st, 1872, 20,287, of which 4,420 are of brick and 15,867 are of wood. The Federal Census, August, 1870, returns the total number at 25,266. (See article on Population, page 11.)

CHURCHES—ST. PATRICK'S.—In our report of last year we remarked upon the general lack of architectural beauty, or grandeur, in the ecclesiastical edifices of this city; buildings which in all countries claim the first attention, and to construct which the highest genius has been engaged and countless treasure lavished. Then the great St. Patrick's on Mission Street was in course of construction, and is now nearly completed and will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, on the 17th of March of this year. The finishing of the interior is now—March 1st—progressing. This is a vast space of 82 feet in width, by 120 in length, and 75 feet high, to the crown of the ceiling of the nave. The nave comprises the main hall, each is 44 feet in width and on each side are aisles of 19 feet in width separated from the nave by rows of 16 crystal columns, 8 on a side, from which spring the upper walls of the main building. The ceiling is a succession of groined arches and is beautifully frescoed in a ground of blue. The light will be ample, there being 36 large windows in the wings and tier and five in the chancel, all filled with stained glass. The windows of the chancel will represent St. Patrick, as a center piece, with historical pictures representing scenes in the life of the patron saint of Ireland. Rows of niches are in the walls, between the windows, twelve of the most conspicuous of which will hold statues of the twelve Apostles.

At night the church will be lighted by gas, a large number of burners springing from the pillars, rather than from chandeliers pendant from the ceiling. A mammoth organ, which is intended to be the largest on the coast, is now making in Germany, and will soon be placed in position. The lofty belfry, 100 feet from the ground, will contain a chime of bells, the present to the church of Peter Donahue Esq., of San Francisco. The total cost of this great structure is about $175,000, and has been built under the supervision of Mr. G. P. Cummings, the architect. At this date St. Patrick's is the largest and most costly church edifice in the State and its lofty spire supporting a large cross richly gilded with gold, 240 feet high, is one of the most conspicuous objects in the city.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—On the southeast corner of Post and Mason streets is one of the most tasteful architectural ornaments of the city. Light and graceful in design, it seems as if it would leap from the earth to the heavens, where its lofty spire so proudly points. This is the First Congregational Church, popularly known as Dr. Stone's, and has been constructed during the past year, under the superintendence of Messrs. Wright & Sanders, architects. The dimensions are 92 feet frontage on Post Street by a depth of 135 on Mason Street, and is 90 feet to the apex of the roof, which is steeply pitched. On the northwest angle is the grand tower and spire, rising to the height of 230 feet, surmounted by vane and weathercock in gilt. The style of architecture is the early English Gothic. The walls are of brick, relieved by pressed brick arches and buttresses capped with concrete stone manufactured by the Pacific Stone Co. This material is used in place of stone in slips, sills, keystones, watertables, etc., through the building, with excellent effect. The three principal entrances are on Post Street, with one in the tower fronting on Mason, and are all reached by broad flights of stone steps partly covered by deeply recessed porches supported on brick piers and detached stone columns. The porches are finished above with gables and carved terminals representing birds and foliage. The entrance doors are wide and made sliding, and are banded and ornamented with iron. Between the buttresses of the side walls are five large windows on each side of the church, having deeply molded and trained heads and recessed arches. These windows terminate with gables extending above the eaves of the building, and finished with iron terminals. The other gables throughout are finished with terminals, and those of the front and rear main gables are ornamented in character and richly gilded. The roof is broken by ventilators, in the style of dormers, having iron terminals, and the ornamental roof is crowned with a cast iron ridgeway. The front of the church, on Post Street, is designed with groups of two and three-light windows, arranged centrally over doorways with deeply recessed arches, relieved by white and dark brick ornamentally disposed. The tower on three of its faces has an arcade of light columns and arches, and the belfry has two large and lofty windows divided by buttresses on each face. The angle buttresses terminate upwards in bold pinnacles, and group well with the canopies and pinnacles of the spire windows. There is also a second or midway tier of spire windows.

The front entrance doors open into a large and airy vestibule, with doors opening opposite into the auditorium, and stairways right and left leading to the galleries. The auditorium is 88 feet in length on the ground floor, and 74 feet wide—the length above gallery, including the organ and choir recess, being 125 feet. The height to the center portion of the ceiling is 65 feet. The walls and ceiling are richly decorated in fresco, of a prevailing tone of blue and white, relieved by light red. The walls are a light salmon color, and the graining over the galleries and in the organ recess is finished in blue with white and gold stars. The upholstery will be of the first quality, the cushions being of the best English damask and the carpeting of three-ply Kidderminster, body Brussels being used for the pulpit platform and minister's study. The furniture of the pulpit platform will be black walnut, richly carved and of appropriate design. The seating accommodations on ordinary occasions will be for 1,600 or 1,700 persons, but will comfortably receive 2,000.

The basement is divided into lecture-room, class-room, infant class-room, ladies' room, library and lumber rooms, which are provided with all necessary lavatories and conveniences. The basement rooms are so arranged that they can all be thrown into one apartment during exercises or for social purposes.

The present organ of the First Congregational Church will be used until a new organ can be purchased, which, judging from the enterprise displayed by the congregation, will not be a very long time.

For evening services the church will be lighted by "sunburners," and the utmost care has been taken with the heating apparatus, and abundant provision made for perfect ventilation. A brick wall surmounted by an iron fence will enclose the building, having gates supported by massive cast iron posts, with grouped gas burners at each entrance.

The total cost of this elegant and commodious structure will be a little over $100,000.

POWELL STREET CHURCH.—The Methodist Episcopal Church on Powell Street, named as in course of construction in the Directory for 1871, has been finished during the past year. This is a wooden structure on a brick foundation and is 45 by 77 feet in dimensions on the ground. In the rear of the spacious auditorium is a lecture room, and from the southeast angle rises a graceful tower to the height of 165 feet, constituting a conspicuous object in this portion of the city. The windows are filled with stained glass, from the manufactory of Mallon & Boyle, of San Francisco.

TATTERSALLS.—The site of the old American Theatre, so long neglected, is again to become a busy spot in San Francisco life. This is on Sansom Street, where the alley called Halleck Street is cut through to Battery. Upon this lot of 54 feet front and 160 deep, an elegant brick building, with iron front, three stories and basement, has been erected. The basement and the principal portion of the first and second stories are designed for the "Tattersalls," for the keeping and sale of horses, carriages, harness, and all furniture and equipments pertaining to the road or the turf. The stables in basement and first floor will afford accommodation for one hundred horses, with closed boxes for stallions and blooded stock requiring extra care. The first floor gives room for a circuit of horses and carriages for inspection on days of sale. On two sides are galleries for spectators and at one end are spacious public and private offices. An elevator carries carriages or other matter from the lower to upper stories, having room for four hundred carriages. The institution altogether is upon the most approved plan of the "Tattersalls" of London, New York and other large cities which have proved so beneficial to dealers and so popular. The projectors and proprietors of the establishment are Messrs. A. M. Burns and R. G. Brush, of the firm of A. M. Burns & Co., and Henry A. George is Superintendent. The front room on first floor is adapted for a saloon or store; the front of the second story will be occupied by the offices of the Regents of the State University and the Raymond & Ely Mining Company, and the third story by the shoe manufactory of Einstein & Co. In this factory will be room for three hundred workmen, with store, offices and exhibition rooms. The cost of this fine building has been about $130,000.

HAGGIN'S RESIDENCE.—While the millionaires of San Francisco do not indulge in the marble and freestone palaces, as do the men of wealth in Eastern cities, there are here many residences exceeding in taste of external appearance, equalling in comfort and rivaling in splendor of internal finish and decorations, those that are so much more costly. One of these in course of construction under the superintendence of Messrs. Rann & Taylor, architects, is the residence of Mr. J. B. Haggin, on the southeast corner of Taylor and Washington streets, and with stable and premises occupying the whole block bounded by Taylor, Washington, Mason and Clay streets. The building is of wood on a brick foundation and basement of 13 feet in height, two main stories respectively of 16 and 15 feet, and a mansard roof affording capacious chambers of 12 feet high. Over the front entrance rises a tower of a total height of 86 feet above the sidewalk. The ground plan is a square of 100 feet on each side, and the house will contain some 50 large rooms, besides closets, lavatories, bathrooms, etc. The basement contains a billiard room 22 by 28 feet in dimensions, laundry, etc. The parlor, in the northern portion of the first story, is a capacious room 52 feet long by 20 wide. The main entrance is from Taylor Street; a broad flight of steps leads to an elegant recessed vestibule and into a wide hall that passes through the building. On the left is the parlor and on the right is the library, dining and other rooms. The sleeping apartments in the second story are large and conveniently arranged, being in size from 20 by 30 to 18 by 20, and there are also numerous bathrooms, closets and balconies. In the third or attic stories are well arranged sleeping apartments, with bath, store rooms, etc. Altogether with its every arrangement of different hoists, dumb waiters, heating, cooking and washing apartments, it seems to combine all that is possible for convenience and comfort of a luxurious home. The framework and exterior is of cedar and redwood, and the interior will be finished in laurel, French walnut, and other of the most elegant fancy woods. The locality is very elevated and the high tower attracts attention from nearly all parts of the city. From the observatory a grand view can be obtained of the southern, eastern and northern portions of the city, also of the bay as far as the eye can reach, with its islands and busy shipping, the Contra Costa and Marin County shores constituting one of the loveliest panoramas it is possible to conceive.

On the same block, though fronting on Mason Street, the same gentlemen has had built a stable that would of itself make a fine residence or a building for some important public purpose. The main building is 61 feet long by 28 wide, two stories high, and on each end is a wing 33 feet long by 18 wide, making a total length of 127 feet. The carriage room has capacity for 18 carriages, and stalls for six horses. The upper story is provided for storage of hay and grain, with three convenient rooms, bathroom, etc., for the residence of the groom and family. Great care has been bestowed on the sanitary arrangement of the stable, and every convenience that skill could devise or wealth secure.

DAM'S BUILDING.—On the northwest corner of Bush and Stockton streets, George W. Dam, Esq., of the well known real estate firm of Dam & Blanchard, has built of wood one of the prettiest houses in the city. This was designed for a private boarding-house, and the beauty of the exterior and convenient arrangement of the interior should make it an attractive one. The house is three stories in height, with Mansard roof and observatory, and contains sixty rooms. The cost of construction was $25,000.

MONTGOMERY AVENUE.—Under a statute passed by the legislature of 1869-70, a Board of Commissioners was appointed, consisting of Messrs. J. C. Maynard, R. H. Sinton and A. M. Hay, for the purpose of opening a street to be called Montgomery Avenue, extending from the corner of Washington and Montgomery streets in a northerly direction to Beach Street between Leavenworth and Hyde streets near Black Point in the northern portion of the city. The original surveys had been such as to make the streets run perpendicular to the slopes of the hills on which the city is built thus rendering many sections almost inaccessible, and Montgomery Avenue was designed to remedy this defect. The route of this street would lead to the northern portion of the city by a grade of but four feet in one hundred, as far as Green Street, thence down by a grade of two and one-half feet in one hundred, while by the present streets it is such as to forbid extensive traffic in that quarter. The avenue was to be 80 feet in width and its length 6,177 feet. The commissioners entered actively upon their duties, in the survey of the route, assessing damages and benefits resulting from cutting it through buildings and streets and estimating its cost. The total cost of construction was estimated at $2,612,070 85 while the benefits to property was estimated at $8,426,035. The payment for the right of way purchasing land and buildings along the line, would have been $1,974,632, and the expense of construction, widening lateral streets, repairing sewers, adjusting water and gas pipe, court expenses, interest and expenses of the commissioners were placed at $637,433 85. A vast amount of work was done by the commissioners, in surveys, searching of titles, estimates, etc., but so strong an opposition was raised as to cause the abandonment—temporarily at least—of the project, and the commission has been dissolved.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO.—The building of street railroads has made accessible the extreme limits of the city. The Potrero and Bay View Railroad opened the Potrero and South San Francisco to settlement, and pleasant suburban villages have there grown up, attached to and under the municipal government of the city. The localities afford most available sites for manufacturing, metallurgical works, and shipbuilding. There are already several important establishments in operation, as the Rolling Mills, Silk Factory, Ropewalk, etc. At Hunter's Point is the great Dry Dock; the Catholic Orphan Asylum crowns the South San Francisco hill; New Butchertown is a busy quarter in Islais Creek Bay; the extensive works of the City Gas Company are in course of construction at Potrero Point, and other institutions and enterprises give life to this southern quarter of the city. The sale of tide lands, the proposition to construct a bridge across the bay, and the expectation that the Southern Pacific Railroad will enter the city in this quarter, have drawn attention to the locality, and its rapid improvement is anticipated.

A new line of street railroad to South San Francisco, commencing at Twenty-sixth Street and passing University Mound is projected, which will still further enhance the attractiveness of this pleasant suburb. This railroad will connect the Market Street Railway with the Potrero and Bay View Railroad in a distance of about two miles, giving access to an important section of country, and affording a circuit of the southern portion of the city. To aid and encourage the construction of this road, the owners of property along the line have agreed to build a bridge across Islais Creek and to grade both sides of the cañon for the reception of the rails. For this purpose $40,000 have been raised by subscription, articles have been drawn, and the franchise secured.

CITY GAS COMPANY.—The formation of new gas, water and railroad companies, where the supply already seems abundant, indicates a plethora of capital more ready for cautious city investment in channels proven by others than in speculative enterprises for developing the resources of the country, great though they be, and upon which all prosperity depends. The City Gas Company is one of the most important of these new enterprises. This is a combination of San Francisco capital, organized April 4th, 1870, and composed of Messrs. A. Hayward, N. Luning, Lloyd Tevis, H. E. Robinson, J. B. Haggin, Thomas Bell, S. F. Butterworth, and C. J. Brenham.

The charter of the company limits the price of gas to $4.50 per 1,000 feet. Work was commenced in June, 1870, and has been vigorously prosecuted since. These works were recently described in the Alta California. They are situated at Potrero Point, occupying four blocks of land fronting on the bay, and lying between Humboldt and Sierra streets. A substantial wharf was first built, at which the largest vessel can lie and discharge coal or other material. Over the wharf runs an elevated platform with car tracks for moving coal from the ship, whence it is raised by steam derrick to warehouse. This building is 280 feet long by 123 feet wide; is 26 feet high, and capable of holding 24,000 tons of coal. In the railway the cars pass over a platform scales, the apparatus of which is in an enclosed room, thus weighing the coal with facility and without delay. Next above the coal warehouse is an excellent building containing the retort ovens, condensing and washing rooms, and basement below for storing coke. This is a fine brick structure, of great strength, and well arranged for the purpose designed. The length is 200 feet and width 65 feet. The floors of the retort room are of brick, arched on iron beams, and supported on seven transverse rows of immense arched pillars.

In the retort house there are forty-two benches, each with six retorts. Into these the coal is placed, and the gas is then driven off by heating the furnaces. In a crude state the gas passes from the retorts into large iron pipes, whence it is conducted through the condensers and coolers, and thence through the washing apparatus, where still further impurities are removed.

In the condensing-room there is also a complete apparatus for the testing of different qualities of coal, with a separate meter and receiver connected.

The next building is 200 feet long by 78 feet wide, containing main floor, basement, and at one end a second story. In this are the boiler room, engine room, purifying house, lime house, carpenter and meter shops. The principal points of attraction here are—first, the engine, which is a beautiful piece of machinery, with walking beam, the whole being as handsome as a piece of parlor furniture; second, the exhausting pumps, very ingeniously arranged, and the purifying house, in which the gas is caused to pass through grates containing lime, for the still further removal of impurities.

The south building is at the upper end of the tract occupied. It consists of two stories, with basement and cupola. In the latter is to be placed a large clock, of the finest workmanship, which will be visible from all parts of the premises. This building contains the meter, which is twelve feet in diameter, and is used to determine the daily amount of gas made by the retorts; the manufacturing and district offices, and private rooms and conveniences for the officers. Outside of this building are two immense holders, 117 feet in diameter and 52 feet in height. These combined will hold upward of one million cubic feet of gas.

The masonry and brick work, as well as the wood finish in the offices, are of the very finest order. There is probably no private work in the State of equal excellence throughout.

On one side of the space occupied are two comfortably arranged and constructed cottage-houses for the use of the engineers.

From ten to twelve miles of pipes are already laid in the streets by this Company. When the present plans are completed, and which are being pressed forward as rapidly as possible, there will be three miles of twenty-four inch pipe and thirty-five miles of eighteen, sixteen, twelve, ten, eight, six and four inch. The mains cross Mission Bay at Ninth Street, running thence to Market. The cross streets are all supplied from these.

These works when completed will have cost one and a half million dollars, and the capacity will be about one and one half million cubic feet per day.

THE METROPOLITAN GAS COMPANY.—The Metropolitan Gas Company was incorporated March 4th, 1871, and immediately commenced the laying of pipe in the business districts of the city, and the erection of works. This company purchased from the Pacific Pneumatic Gas Company, the assignee of the Gale & Rand patents, the right for San Francisco, to make illuminating gas by distilling liquid or solid hydro-carbons at a low temperature and passing the vapors so obtained into a red-hot retort. The site selected of the gas works is Mission Block, No. 43, fronting on Channel Street (Mission Creek) west of Ninth Street. The company has performed a large amount of work here; erecting a costly bulkhead and wharf raised the ground nine to twelve feet, bringing it up to the official grade, excavating for, and building a first-class gasholder, having a capacity of over 400,000 cubic feet. The other works of the company consist of a substantial brick building 175 feet in length, containing still house, retort house, condensing chamber, exhauster, engine, boiler and meter rooms, and in the upper story, offices, photometric room, and engineer's apartments. The company has also erected two large reservoir tanks, capable of storing nearly 100,000 gallons of petroleum and naphtha, also a commodious coal shed. The works though smaller than those of the City Gas Company, on the Potrero, are very complete, and in consequence of the simplicity of this process, quite adequate to the manufacture of all the gas that is, or will be, consumed in the city for many years to come.

The holder was manufactured by Messrs. Hoy, Kennedy & Co., of the Atlantic Dock Iron Works, New York—the makers of the King Street gas holder and the gas holders of the City Gas Company. The columns and girders are on a new principle, recently patented by Mr. Kennedy, and first seen on this coast at these works, and are known as "lattice work". The holder is ninety-two feet six inches in diameter, and fifty feet high, in two lifts, being telescoped.

The company claims that petroleum gas is superior in lighting qualities and in purity to coal gas, and passes less swiftly through the consumers' meters. The Metropolitan gas works are on the point of completion, and the company promises to make gas, not later than the first week in April. The maximum price which it can charge under its charter is $3.50 per thousand cubic feet. The officers are J. W. Stow, President; W. W. Montague, H. B. Williams and J. W. Stow, Trustees, and A. D. Bell, Secretary.

MAXIM GAS COMPANY.—Science and mechanical ingenuity continue their researches after some material, liquid or gaseous, that will afford a cheap and brilliant light, with the desiderata of safety, cleanliness and convenience of arrangement. Great advances have been made within the past twenty years in lighting our rooms, and the dim glimmer of the fish-oil lamp, and the faint flicker of the tallow dip, are almost banished from memory. The determination to rise above these was apparent, and every substitute was willingly tried. Camphene, phosgene and other burning fluid were introduced and extensively used, until the inventor prepared a lamp for burning petroleum, an oil that the rocks of several of the States of the Union supply in abundance, and cheaply. To burn it in perfection was the desired object. Gas makes the cleanest and pleasantest of all lights; but its manufacture from coal, in the usual manner, requires extensive and costly works, with most expensive distribution, and single houses or small towns cannot avail themselves of it. After noticing the great gas companies operating in this city, a reference to the Maxim Gas Company will not be out of place. This is founded on a patented machine and apparatus for making gas from the volatile products of petroleum which accomplishes its work in a very simple, efficient and inexpensive manner. The apparatus is peculiarly adapted for single buildings, or villages, and may be extended indefinitely. The machines are manufactured at the factory in this city, No. 417 Mission Street, the office being at 238 Montgomery Street. Quite a number of business houses, schools, manufactories and private residences are now lighted by this gas, and also many of the interior towns of the State. It is contemplated to light by this machine every town in the State. The gasoline of which the gas is made, can be placed at any convenient distance from the machine, to insure the most perfect safety, and is then drawn in constant supply, as needed, all of which is automatically regulated. The officers of the company, are among the best known of San Francisco's successful business men, J. O. Eldridge, being President; Wm. H. Ladd, Vice-President; Chris. Reis, Treasurer; James H. Clark, Manager; and Robert Day, Secretary.

CALIFORNIA SILK MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—In noting the progress of the city, mention of of such an establishment as the California Silk Manufacturing Company will not be inappropriate, although its statistics are given under another heading. The fact of the building was mentioned in the Directory for 1871, but it was only last summer that machinery was procured, and on the 1st of August, 1871, work commenced.

The company is an organization incorporated under the laws of California, with a capital stock of $50,000. San Francisco capitalists venture but little in untried fields; and silk manufacture or production seemed an experiment, good to encourage in newspapers and agricultural society addresses, as one of the great sources of future wealth, but too unknown to be considered as a safe investment. In 1870, the company erected at South San Francisco, on the corner of Eleventh Avenue and P streets, a building of 50 feet front by 125 in depth, and two stories in height, each story comprising one large room and the necessary offices; the cost being about $7,500. The room is sufficient for a manufacturing business of $250,000 per annum, but at present only a part, the lower story, is occupied. Here are about two thousand spindles which are driven by a ten horse power engine. There are forty operators, principally females, some quite young, and the wages are from $3 to $10 per week. The products are machine sewing silks, twist, tram, organzine and fringes. The raw material is ruled silk from China and Japan. A small quantity is obtained from California, and this, it is remarked, is of a far superior quality. Unfortunately but little of the latter can be obtained, our people not yet having learned the care of the silk-worm and the reeling of cocoons. This is a business of the future. The California Silk Manufacturing Co. is now in successful operation, and should it prove as profitable as some enthusiastic advocates have predicted, the experiment will be of the highest interest to this State.

PAVEMENTS. [Communicated.—In countries where timber is abundant and accessible, wooden pavements have long been used. They have been first employed for convenience and economy and afterwards continued for the comfort they afforded. Pavements of stone are resorted to when the wood of a country is exhausted faster than its wealth grows. With the increase of wealth, however, there is a disposition to enjoy the luxury of a smooth, clean and comparatively noiseless pavements of wood, at a cost if necessary, exceeding that of stone.

In the cities of Chicago and Detroit scarcely anything else is now laid; and in the city of New York, the wooden blocks are being put down at about double the cost of cobble stones.

In San Francisco we are now making the comparative trial with cobble and wooden blocks, and the solution of the question is one of much interest both present and future. Prior to 1863, a street paving in the City of San Francisco was laid and kept in repair at the expense of the owners of the adjacent property. Since that time, the first laying has been done as before, at the expense of the property owners, but when done to the satisfaction of the city authorities, the paving is accepted by them, and is maintained in repair at the public cost. According to the last municipal report, paving along two hundred and thirty blocks and crossings have been so accepted, and as Mayor Selby states, is about equally divided between cobble stones and wooden block pavements. These the city has to keep in repair, and the late mayor thinks it a question of vital importance to the city to ascertain if some better style of pavement cannot be found. He arrives at the conclusion that wooden pavements will be found too expensive because of the perishable character of the materials used, and recommends the introduction of artificial stone, and even suggests that in some localities, a return to cobble stones may be found advisable.

A careful examination into the facts of the case forces us to the conclusion that our late worthy Mayor has not given the subject the consideration which it deserves. It may be a good suggestion to adopt artificial stone in preference to wood, if such an article can be found, both cheap and durable; but we cannot subscribe to the suggestion of returning to the barbarous cobble stones when every other city in christendom is seeking to discard them.

The oft repeated assertion that cobble stones are indestructible, and consequently a cheap material for street paving, is less an axiom than many persons imagine. It is very poor economy indeed for the body politic to use an article, however durable, if its use causes waste of other property in excess of the value retained in the material itself. Such, we think, is unmistakably true of cobble stones—careful scientific reports in many parts of the world have shown such to be the case. The destruction to animals and vehicles by passing over cobble stone pavements, in every city where used, exceeds the value retained in the cobbles themselves, according to the best judgment of those who have thoroughly investigated the subject.

But if that view of the question be discarded entirely, the economy of cobble stone pavements in this city cannot be demonstrated by an examination of the official reports and other facts.

There are now in the city of San Francisco, of accepted cobble stone pavements, 113 blocks and crossings, with an aggregate area of 1,803,999 square feet, which have been laid since 1863, at a cost to the property holders of $462,703 74-100, or 25 3-5 cents per foot.

The repairs on this cobble pavement during the past fiscal year amounted to $83,703 35-100, and the total cost to the city for repairs since their acceptance amounts to $199,833 45-100, or about 11 cents per foot, thereby making the total cost of these cobble pavements, as they stand to-day, $662,587 19-100, or 36 3-5 cents per foot, on an average.

There are, on the other hand, 111 blocks and crossings of accepted wooden block pavements, with an aggregate area of 1,808,951 square feet, which have been laid since 1863, at a cost to the property holders of $470,412 50-100, or 26 cents per foot.

The repairs during the past fiscal year amounted to only $9,526 35-100, and the total cost to the city for repairs since their acceptance amounts to $16,902 97-100, or a trifle less than one cent per foot; thereby making the total cost of the wooden block pavements, as they stand to-day, $487,315 47-100, or a fraction less than 27 cents per foot on the average.

This shows a difference, within the same time, of $175,271 72-100 in favor of the wooden block pavements, over about an equal area of cobble—an amount, we think, sufficient to put all the wooden block pavements in the city in thorough repair; at any rate, our company will enter into such a contract with the city, and will furnish satisfactory bonds for the faithful performance of the same. And when once put in repair, we will contract to keep them in order, by replacing new wood for old, whenever necessary, at the average cost for repairing cobble pavements the past fiscal year. In other words, for the cost of rough cobble stones, the city may have permanently the smooth and even wooden block pavement.

It is not denied, by those now engaged in laying wooden block pavements, that many of the early samples were laid with Oregon fir—a quality of lumber which has proved almost valueless for the purpose; but the material now used—black heart redwood—is known to be durable, and the samples referred to in our advertisements, as seen in front of the City Hall and elsewhere, are certainly fine specimens of pavement.

After a careful examination into the municipal reports to ascertain the cost thus far incurred for street paving in this city, we are unable to discover any just cause for the alarm sounded by the late Mayor in his valedictory; but, on the contrary, we find cause for congratulation in reviewing the exact state of facts. If contrasted with other cities, the sum thus far expended by San Francisco upon paved streets is certainly very small.

Upon page 242 of the last municipal reports, there is a summary of all expenditures for street work of every kind since 1856; and it is there shown that the entire sum thus far expended on paved streets amounts to $1,091,214 31-100, which is only about one-third of the annual expenditure for the same purpose in Chicago, and is less than the amount expended last year in the city of Detroit on wooden block pavements alone.

Of the $2,798,389 37-100 paid into the city treasury last year for taxes, the insignificant sum of $196,000 only was expended upon the streets for repairs, cleaning, etc.

The truth is, San Francisco is behind the age in street improvements, and a more liberal policy should at once be inaugurated. There is not a street in the city well paved for three blocks consecutively. If you find one block well paved, the chances are the adjoining one will be in a dilapidated condition.

The sooner our people learn that it is true economy to have their streets thoroughly and uniformly paved with the most comfortable and approved pavement, the sooner they will give evidence of the fact that they are trying to keep pace with the spirit of the age in which they live; and when thus prepared the city should not hesitate to accept and maintain them in the same good condition in which they are delivered to her, because the aggregate amount required for said purpose will be found a small proportion of the annual tax receipts; and certainly there can be no more deserving call upon the public purse, to benefit the tax payer, than that which goes to the maintenance of good thoroughfares, for the convenience and comfort of an active, busy population who are required to pass to and fro in the pursuit of their daily vocations.

CITY PAVING COMPANY.

Insurance Companies.

There are seven insurance companies devoted to fire and marine risks, organized in this city, one of which, the Merchants Mutual Marine, attends to marine business only. The aggregate paid up capital is $3,152,250. During the past year three companies, the Pacific, Occidental, and Peoples, have gone into liquidation in consequence of the losses sustained by the Chicago conflagration, and two new companies, the State Investment and the Commercial, have commenced operations. In addition to the home companies, there are twelve Eastern and seventeen foreign companies represented in this city by agents. There are thirty-six life insurance companies transacting business in California, and agencies in this city, of which only two are home institutions—the California Mutual of this city, and the Pacific Mutual of Sacramento.

RAILROADS--PACIFIC COAST.

The railroad system of the Pacific coast, as now projected, promises, when completed, to be one of the most valuable in the United States. That portion, in particular, which is comprised in California, has already been in large part constructed, and has done much to develop the agricultural capabilities of sections of the country that, from their remoteness from extensive markets, would not have paid to cultivate. The great valleys of the Sacramento and San Joaquin, extending parallel to the coast, between the 35th and 41st degrees north latitude, are completely shut out from the East by the lofty Sierra Nevadas, and on the west, in most part, by the lower but still rugged Coast Range. Two streams only, in this large tract of country—the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers—admit of cheap water transportation for about two hundred miles north and south to the Pacific coast. These rivers are located in the centers of the vallies—a considerable portion of the latter one being only navigable from four to six months each year, according to the fall of rain in the winter season. As a consequence, the high cost of freight by teams will not admit of profitable grain-growing, except in favored localities, and large tracts of arable land are only valuable for sheep and stock raising. The settlement of these portions of the State was for many years greatly retarded, so that the bulk of the population and property was concentrated in comparatively few localities.

This state of things existed until the advent of the railroad-building era, which may be said to have commenced in 1863, and which, year by year since then, has been making great progress, bringing remote sections of the country into quick and profitable intercourse with San Francisco and other large domestic markets. Permanent population has thereby been spread into the more distant portions of the State, the value of arable land largely increased, and a condition of general prosperity produced in places where formerly the herder of cattle was the only inhabitant, and the live stock about the only taxable property to be found.

The extension of railroads is also causing the development of large sections of mining country, where the presence of lead and other base metals, in combination with gold and silver, has hitherto made such mining often unprofitable. The result is the opening up of many old mines that have hitherto been virtually abandoned, the discovery of new deposits of mineral through the stimulation of prospecting, and the extension of operations on such mines as have proved profitable to work under the heavy expense of team and pack-train transportation. At present the large amount of base bullion produced from the mining regions in Mono and Inyo counties has to be transported, in most part, by pack-trains to San Pedro, from whence it is brought by sea to San Francisco, to be refined or sold. The expense of this long land-carriage and subsequent water transportation is very great, and only admits of a few of the richest mines being worked under such circumstances. When the San Joaquin Valley road, now in construction, is completed to Visalia, the transportation of this bullion will be transferred from San Pedro to the former place, and thence by cars to San Francisco, saving at least one-half in expense, and enabling returns to be had within less than one-third the now usual time.

Another feature that the present winter of 1871-'2 has developed, is the difficulties arising from the storms and the drifting of snow on some portions of the Union Pacific Railroad, thereby causing that road to be blockaded for passenger transit for several weeks at a time, and showing it to be liable to such drawbacks during at least four months of each year. The consequence has been the detention of hundreds of passengers while in mid transit, who in many cases suffered from sickness brought on by exposure and scarcity of suitable food. Also the detention and damage caused to hundreds of car-loads of valuable and perishable goods, which have in many instances been more than three months exposed to the inclemencies of the weather on their way across the continent. The detention of freight alone has resulted in great losses to importers on the Pacific coast, who depended upon quick and continuous rail facilities to keep up assortments of stock, while the forwarding of teas and other foreign products to the Atlantic States by sea, via Panama, is tedious and unsatisfactory to shippers.

The Central Pacific Railroad officers having become aware of the great liabilities of detention by the northern route in severe winters, have been using every energy in pressing forward the construction of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad, of which they are also owners. This road, which runs for a long distance south through the San Joaquin Valley, has comparatively few obstacles to overcome in its construction, and is being built at the rate of about half a mile daily. The managers intend to push its construction well into the southeastern section of California, with the view of subsequently pressing it forward to connect with one of the two projected trans-continental roads, on the 35th or 32nd parallel, as may show the best proofs of early completion. By this means they will be assured of a secure route to the Mississippi Valley, even in the most severe winters, and also will thereby head off all probable opposition or competition in securing the trans-continental traffic.

The connection of the San Joaquin Valley road with the Central Pacific road is at a point called Lathrop, about 18 miles south of Stockton, thence having connection with San Francisco Bay at Oakland. This latter place will thereby soon become the most important railroad terminus in the State, the following roads ending there, viz.: The Central Pacific road, main line to the eastern boundary of the State, 293 miles; the California and Oregon road, from the southern line of Oregon to Roseville Junction, about 200 miles; the Northern California road, from Oroville to Marysville, 26 miles; the Sacramento Valley and Placerville roads, from Shingle Springs to Sacramento, 48 miles; the Stockton and Tulare road, from Visalia to Stockton, about 170 miles; the Stockton and Copperopolis road, from Copperopolis to Stockton, 48 miles; the San Joaquin Valley road, from Lathrop's to the southeastern boundary of California, probably 300 miles; the San Jose branch of the Central Pacific road, from Niles Station to San Jose, 14 miles; and a road projected but yet unnamed, from Hollister to a point on the San Joaquin Valley road about 20 miles south of Visalia, a distance of about 140 miles. These when completed will make a total of 1,250 miles of railway within the boundaries of California that will terminate at Oakland, or at Goat Island, in San Francisco Bay, if the latter place can be obtained from the United States Government for that purpose.

In addition to these roads, the main lines of the trans-continental road via Ogden, and its connections, the Oregon and California road in the former State, and the proposed 35th or 32nd parallel roads, from St. Louis or Texas, as the case may be, when completed will add at least 5,000 miles additional roads whose Pacific terminus will be in Oakland City.

The second railroad terminus in the State promises to be located at Sausalito—a point on the western shore of the Bay, about five miles north of San Francisco. The plan, as contemplated by the projectors of this enterprise, is to have the following, built and projected railroads, end there, viz.: The present roads from Vallejo to Sacramento, Marysville and Calistoga are to be changed as follows: The lines of the two first roads are to be run from a point a little south of the present summit, near Bridgeport, Solano county, in a direct line to Sausalito, skirting mostly the shores of the Bay; the Napa and Calistoga branch is to intersect the line at or near Suscol; the North Pacific running from Donahue to Humboldt Bay, at a point below the former place, and the North Pacific Coast (narrow gauge) road, at San Rafael or Sausalito. By this combination the varied products of a large extent of country north of San Francisco can be transported almost directly to that city, or sent over the various lines of connecting roads to many points of the interior, when needed. The time of transit between San Francisco and Sacramento will be much shortened, the total distance being only 83 miles, with less than five miles water transportation. The deep water and bold shores at Sausalito will also admit of the building of comparatively inexpensive wharves, at which the largest vessels can load, sheltered in all directions from violent storms. This combination points to a virtual abandonment of Vallejo as a railroad shipping point, and, if carried out, will probably cause the discontinuance of lines of steamers now running to San Rafael, Donahue and Suisun, and a portion of the lines to Vallejo, as freight and passengers can be forwarded by rail more quickly than by other means. Should this project be carried out to its promised completion, the result will be the building up of an extensive system of warehousing and shipping business at New Sausalito, where the roads terminate.

Another railway terminus is in San Francisco, where the Southern Pacific road, now completed to Hollister, a distance of 100 miles, with a branch line of 20 miles to Watsonville, and also another branch line of 20 miles to Santa Cruz, will be built this year. How much further these lines—which belong to the same parties as the Central Pacific—will be extended in future is at present very uncertain, it being reported that the company have given up and abandoned the idea of constructing the road over the mountains south of Hollister, on account of the ruggedness of the country, which will involve a vast outlay without probable commensurate benefit. An addition to the foregoing is the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, which is projected to be built from San Francisco along the coast southward to Salinas Valley, in Santa Cruz county, thence in a southeasterly direction to that boundary of the State. This road will be a narrow gauge one, and has been surveyed, but as yet no actual work in its construction has been performed.

The following railroads in California are now the property of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, although running under their original names. This company have thus virtual control of the transportation of freights and passengers, they also owning the steamboats of the late California Steam Navigation Co.

The Sacramento Valley Railroad was the first constructed in the State, and run from Sacramento to Folsom, on the American River, a distance of 22 miles—the Sacramento Valley and Placerville Railroad connecting with the foregoing and running to Shingle Springs, a distance of 26 miles. This latter road was originally intended to be constructed to Placerville, some 12 miles further. It is reported that the original intention will in time be carried out by the Central Pacific Railroad Company, who now own it, and will probably extend it some 20 miles further south, into a region of timber lands, (sugar-pine) thereby giving it an extensive and profitable down traffic.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company, organized in 1861, whose original lines ran from Sacramento eastward, has since that date absorbed the Western Pacific, Alameda and Oakland railroads, making a continuous line from Oakland to Ogden, in Utah Territory, total distance 880 miles, with a branch from Niles Station to San Jose, 14 miles, and the Alameda Railroad, which has a separate line of rails from Alameda Point to Haywards, a distance of 17 miles.

The Southern Pacific Railroad—formerly known as the San Jose and San Francisco Railroad—is now completed from San Francisco to Hollister, a distance of 100 miles, with a spur road running from Gilroy to Pajaro, near Watsonville, a distance of 20 miles. This branch road is intended to be continued, during the present year, 20 miles further, to the town of Santa Cruz, the people of that place having voted a subsidy for that purpose. The continuation of the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad across the Coast Range of mountains into the San Joaquin Valley, and thence southward, is reported to be abandoned, the difficulties in the different lines of surveys showing that it can only be accomplished at an immense cost, far more than commensurate with the probable advantages to be gained. In place of the Southern Pacific Road, the Central Pacific Company have decided on devoting their energies to the speedy completion of the San Joaquin Valley Road, which can be built at a much less cost, and will better accomplish their purpose.

The California and Oregon Railroad, extending from Roseville Junction (18 miles from Sacramento) to the Oregon State line, is now completed to Red Bluffs, a distance of 115 miles. Surveys have been made of the remaining distance, one of which it is reported has been adopted, and work will be continued vigorously during the present year.

The San Joaquin Valley Railroad is now completed from Lathrop's Station (18 miles south of Stockton) to a point 30 miles beyond Merced City, to which place passenger trains are now running. The construction of this road to Visalia is being pressed, the road being built at the rate of half a mile or more daily—the intention of the Company being to have the cars at Visalia by the 1st of July, in order to remove the immense grain crops sown in anticipation of cheap transportation.

The freight traffic on this road from Visalia promises in time to be the most important, considering its length, of any line in the United States. Some portions of this valley are well adapted to the production of cotton, rice, sugar and hemp, the former staple having been successfully and profitably raised in 1871 under all the disadvantages of a very dry season. The mineral resources of Mono and Inyo counties, that now have to be sent by pack train to San Pedro, and thence by sea to San Francisco, will also find transit via rail from Visalia. The wealth of this section of the State in base and precious metals is already said to be fully equal in importance to that of any other portion of California. What it will become when cheap transportation will be added to its other advantages, time only can prove. The importance of this mineral region is estimated so highly by the Central Pacific Company that it is reported they will build a branch road across the Sierras from Visalia to Owens' Lake mines, a distance of about 75 miles in a straight line.

The California Pacific Railroad, running from Vallejo to Sacramento—to Marysville and Calistoga—has, during the past year, passed into the hands of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and is virtually their property. The main line of this road from Vallejo to Sacramento is 60 miles; to Marysville, via Davisville, 95 miles; while the Napa Valley branch to Calistoga is 33 miles long. These lines of roads now center or rather end in Vallejo; but if the plan of removing to Saucelito the termination of the roads in the peninsula north of San Francisco is carried out, they will leave Vallejo almost in her original isolation, doing simply a local bay business.

The North Pacific and Humboldt Railroad, running from Donahue (on Petaluma Creek) northward to Humboldt Bay, has been completed through Russian River Valley to Healdsburg, a distance of 42 miles. The larger portion of the road bed to Cloverdale, 22 miles further, has been graded and built, and it is expected to have trains running to the latter named place in June, 1872. The branch line running from Santa Rosa to North Bloomfield, a distance of 14 miles, has been partially completed, but work on the same has been temporarily suspended, owing to the time having expired for its construction to entitle the Company to receive subsidy bonds from the county. A bill to extend the time three months passed the Legislature, but was vetoed by the Governor of the State. This road, as before stated, will connect with a main line running from Sacramento to Saucelito.

The Stockton and Copperopolis Railroad, running from Stockton to Milton, a distance of 48 miles, has during the past year been purchased by the Central Pacific Railroad Company. This road was intended as a rival to the San Joaquin Valley Railroad, with the view of giving the trade of a large section of country to Stockton instead of passing south and west direct by the latter to San Francisco. This purpose has, however, been defeated by its sale, as it is probable that the line will, with view of economy in working, be diverted to some point on the San Joaquin Valley Railroad.

An extension of the Central Pacific Railroad has been surveyed and partially constructed from Banta Station near the San Joaquin River to Antioch on Suisun Bay, and thence via San Pablo Pass to Oakland, which, when completed, will not only shorten the distance some 20 miles between Stockton and Oakland, but will admit of greater economy in working, owing to its lighter grades. The extension will also tap the trade of a very populous and productive section of country that is now supplied with inconvenient transportation to San Francisco.

All the foregoing roads are now the property of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, although in some cases carried on in their original names—yet all having the same individuals as officers. The other Railroads in the State are as follows:

The California Northern Railroad, running from Marysville to Oroville, a distance of 26 miles. This road when first built was intended to form a portion of the line through Beckwith Pass into the northern portion of Nevada, and probably thence eastward to some point of connection with the Union Pacific Railroad—thus forming a second and rival line of railway across the western portion of the continent. The sale of the California Pacific Railroad, with which it made its connection with tide water, has now isolated the California Northern Railroad, and confines its scope of action to the small local traffic along its immediate line of road.

The San Pedro and Los Angeles Railroad runs from Wilmington on the sea-coast to Los Angeles, a distance of 21 miles. This road is at present valuable for the local traffic only, but its extension into San Bernardino county is intended, which will largely increase its importance and open up a section of country which, owing to high cost of transportation, is at present of comparatively little value for agricultural purposes. The extension of this road will also prove valuable to the trade of Arizona Territory, which now procures its supplies mostly overland through San Diego and Fort Yuma.

The Pittsburg and Black Diamond are two railroads, each 7 miles long, used entirely for the transportation of coal from the mines around Mount Diablo, both terminating at landings on Suisun Bay, named respectively Pittsburg Landing and New York of the Pacific. The San Rafael and San Quentin Railroad is three and a half miles long, and connects the former place with a ferry to San Francisco.

The North Pacific Coast Railroad Company has been incorporated for the purpose of constructing a narrow gauge railroad from San Rafael via Tomales to the mouth of Walhalla River, in the northern portion of Sonoma county. The people of Marin county have voted a subsidy to this road, and the surveys and preliminary work of construction has been already commenced. This road when built will open up an outlet for a large lumber region on the coast that is by sea almost inaccessible during several months in the year.

The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company has been formed by Boston capitalists with the intention of constructing a line of narrow gauge road along the coast of California to the southern part of the State. The initial point of this road commences at San Francisco—the line being along the coast in San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties to Salinas Valley. It runs up this valley and in the interior until it again strikes the coast in San Luis Obispo county; thence to Santa Barbara via Foxen Cañon, and down the coast again to San Buenaventura. From thence two lines of survey have been run, neither of which has yet been accepted by the Company. One line goes through the San Fernando Pass to Los Angeles; thence to San Bernardino and to the Colorado river, with a branch line from San Bernardino to San Diego. The other line runs from San Buenaventura through Soledad Pass to the Mohave river, via the "Needles," its termination being about 15 or 20 miles below Fort Mohave.

Meteorological Observations made at San Francisco from January, 1850, to December, 1871.

BY HENRY GIBBONS, M. D.

In the following tables the reader will find, in a condensed form the results of twenty years' diligent observation of the climate of San Francisco, with more particular reference to rain. A single glance at the rain tables will present the quantity of rain which has fallen in each month since 1850, the quantity in each season; the quantity before and after the end of the year; the date of the beginning and ending of each rainy season, and the date of the first and last scattering rains. The following are some of the deductions presented by this record:

Rain has fallen in every month of the year. In July it has rained only in one year; August has furnished rain in four years; June in six years; September in seven years; October in eleven years. No account is made of a mere sprinkle, nor of the deposit of Summer mist. The greatest quantity of mist which ever falls in twenty-four hours is about three-hundredths of an inch. But this quantity is very rare. Near the ocean the mist is much more copious.

The driest season was 1850-51, which gave only seven inches. Next to that was 1863-4, with eight and one-half inches. The winter of 1867-8 gave the most rain—forty inches. The average is between twenty-one and twenty-two inches.

The earliest setting in of the rainy season was November 1st; the latest, January 12th. An early beginning and an abundant supply are apt to go together, but there is no rule in this respect. The latest beginnings have been followed by an average supply.

The average date of the beginning of the rainy season is November 28th; of the termination, April 10th. March is as certain to bring rain in liberal amount as any other month. In one year out of every three there is no rain of importance after March. The last showers of the season come, with remarkable uniformity, about the third week of May.

The middle of January is the average dividing point of the rainy season. The mean quantity before January 1st is about equal to the mean quantity after January 31st.

December gives the greatest average quantity; January is not far behind; February, March and November come next, and are nearly alike; then April, May and October in the order named.

The greatest amount of rain in any one month was in January, 1862, when there fell the enormous quantity of eighteen inches.

It is worthy of note that in the driest seasons there has been an abundant supply for agricultural purposes, had it been distributed evenly. Three inches in December, with one inch in each of the four following months would answer all purposes.

The rain-table of San Francisco may be made the basis for estimating the fall in other parts of the State. The mountains of the north have from two to three times as much, and the southern section of the State about half as much, or even less in some localities. The valley of the Sacramento has nearly the same quantity as San Francisco; that of the San Joaquin one-fourth or one-third less, the quantity diminishing southward.

By reference to the tables showing the extremes of heat and cold, it appears that the coldest weather was in January, 1854, when the mercury fell to 25°. At that time the mud in the streets was frozen solid, and the shallow ponds were covered with ice strong enough for boys to skate on. But such weather is extremely rare, though since that time the ground has been frozen several times so as not to thaw fully in the shade for a day or two. The coldest noonday embraced in the record was 37°. Often the entire winter passes by without bringing the thermometer so low as the freezing point. In 1853 it fell at no time below 40°.

The extreme of heat was on the 10th and 11th of September, 1852, when the thermometer reached 97° and 98° on the two days respectively. This, however, was entirely exceptional, and might not occur again in half a century. The air was dry as a sirocco, and caused the woodwork of houses to crackle and the plaster to break on the wooden walls.

With the exception just noted, the hottest day on record was 93° on the 6th day of July, 1867. In October, 1864, and in September, 1865, it reached 91°, and in July, 1855, it reached 90°. Thus it appears that there were only six days in twenty years when the thermometer rose as high as 90°.

The table of mean temperature shows that our summer does not come till the summer months have passed by. September is the warmest month in the year, and October next; then comes August; July, the hottest month elsewhere, is the fourth here, or ranks with June; next come April and May; then March and November; then February, and finally January and December, which are the only winter months, if indeed we have any weather that deserves the name of winter.

Twice the ground has been covered with snow. On the 29th of December, 1856, it snowed very fast for several hours, and two or three inches gathered, but it melted before night. On the 12th of January, 1868, it snowed fast before day, so that two inches collected. But it disappeared before sunrise, so that but few persons enjoyed the rare spectacle.

The extraordinary evenness of the climate depends on the adjacent ocean, the water of which, flowing in a current from the north, is always at a temperature of about 50°, summer and winter. The sea breeze of Summer, which chills the air at noonday, leaves no place for hot nights. There is not, on an average, one night in the year, when it is warm enough to sit out of doors at midnight with thin clothing.

GENERAL REVIEW.

Our Public Schools.*

The educational year does not coincide with either the calendar or the municipal year. The municipal year begins December 1st, while the educational twelvemonth commences July 1st. Hence the Directory's year, being identical with that of the calendar, includes the last half of one school year and the first half of the next. Our record for 1871, then, embraces the last half of the school year 1870-1, and the first half of the school year 1871-2.

MORE EFFICIENT SUPERINTENDENCE.

In January, 1871, the newly appointed incumbent of the lately created office of Deputy City Superintendent, John Swett, began his work. The Deputy really doubles, even more than doubles, the activity and consequent usefulness of school superintendence. Personal attention to the constantly increasing throng of petty details very far exceeds the power of any one man, even the most versatile and experienced. Eastern cities no larger than ours provide two, and, in some cases, even three deputies, to do the work here exacted from one. The Deputy's duty is to visit schools, observe methods, commend excellencies, note defects, suggest improvements, counsel younger teachers, advise with principals, and communicate results to the Board; in short, to promote unity, foster harmony, and increase efficiency. In some respects he is a traveling Normal School, which kindly goes round to the teachers instead of compelling the teachers to come to it. The eminent ability and extended experience of the first incumbent have caused his office and his duties to seem as natural and become as useful as if both had been long established. Both office and duties had long been needed, and have already paid many times their cost to the Department.

THE NEW COURSE OF STUDY.

Decidedly the next gain, in point of value, has been the dropping of the less essential studies from nearly all the grammar grades, and the material reduction of the amount required in several of the studies retained. The new course cumbers pupils with fewer tasks, but requires them to make up in thoroughness what they may lack in variety, so that, while the whole amount of formal study is considerably lessened, the thoroughness of the drill and the real quality of the education secured is correspondingly enhanced.

CONSOLIDATION OF PRIMARY GRADES.

A third improvement, of hardly less importance, was the consolidation of primary grades in such a way as to reduce their number and double the time allowed to each without increasing the time required for the completion of the full primary course. Formerly the primary system included six grades each occupying six months, while the grammar course consisted of four grades each requiring one year. The manifest difficulty was that the highest primary grade would be graduating pupils into the lowest grammar grade twice as often as the beginning grammar grade was ready to receive them. By reducing the number of primary grades and extending the time of each through one year, the completion of each grade, the examinations therein, and the promotions therefrom, are made coincident with those of each grammar grade.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS.

The fourth improvement, and one tending directly and especially to enhance efficiency at its very source, was the establishment of quarterly Competitive Examinations of Teachers. All candidates for position as teachers in the Public Schools of San Francisco, regardless of age, sex, previous experience, number of testimonials or character of endorsers, are required to pass an oral examination conducted by specially elected practical teachers, in the presence of the other candidates and, frequently, before members of the Committee on Classification, with the Superintendent or Deputy, or both. The Board of Examination subsequently classifies the successful candidates into three grades or ranks, and submits a written tabulated report of such classification to the Board of Education, for its information in the nomination and election of teachers.

The averages of several such examinations thus far have clearly demonstrated three things:

- 1st. Surprising incompetence in candidates claiming, and supposed, to be thoroughly qualified.
- 2d. The imperative need of thorough examinations, faithfully conducted by competent and impartial examiners.
- 3d. The great aid rendered, by these examinations, to the Committee on Classification, in its nomination of teachers; and to the whole Board in their subsequent election.

Unfortunately, however, truth compels us to state that some of these subsequent elections have clearly shown that unquestioned natural capacity and the best certified experience, joined with the highest rank in scholarship, cannot always command the number of votes requisite to secure a position as teacher in the public schools of this city. Here, as elsewhere, the question more frequently asked is, not what, but who the candidate may be. Personal influence—the bane of California public life—reinforced by prepossession or prejudice, occasionally causes obvious personal partiality and gross injustice.

EVENING NORMAL SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS.

A City Normal School, just established, or revived, affords younger teachers, and, in fact, all teachers, opportunity to learn what older or other professional brethren or sisters can teach. This tends immediately to make them better teachers in their own classes, and, incidentally, to qualify them for passing the competitive examination necessary to obtain a higher grade certificate should they so desire. This school meets on Monday evening of each school-week, continues two hours, is conducted by competent teachers,—under the direction of the Deputy Superintendent as Principal,—is numerously attended, and promises much good.

INCREASED PAY OF GRAMMAR ASSISTANTS.

To raise one's salary generally stimulates one's efficiency, and to increase one's efficiency certainly tends most directly to secure better work and more of it. This pecuniary inducement, in some slight degree, has been added to the motives which may urge grammar assistants, whose monthly pay was raised from $67.50 to $70 a month, that is from $810 to $830 a year, gold coin; always excepting the cases, unpleasantly frequent of late, where the unfortunate shortsightedness of the pecuniary management cuts off the pay of the last month or two. The salaries of female head-assistants in Grammar Schools has been raised from one thousand to fifteen hundred a year, and their title changed to Vice-Principal. San Francisco pays her female teachers more and her male teachers less than any other American city. It is but simple justice to state, however, that, taken as a whole, her female teachers decidedly surpass the males in character, education, competence and success. This testimony may, possibly, possess the greater value from the fact that it is voluntarily and cheerfully given by a male teacher of seven years' observation and experience in this department.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

These indispensable agencies for educating young men and women who either lost or neglected the educational facilities of earlier youth, as well as, and, indeed, mainly, for boys and girls whose family circumstances compel them to labor through the day, continue to extend their facilities to all, either old or young, who choose to accept and improve them. The burning of the Lincoln School Building, in February, 1871, temporarily and partially demoralized several of the largest classes, but the scattered pupils soon regathered and renewed operations with increased efficiency. A new regulation of the Board has adopted these schools as a prominent and permanent feature of the regular public school system.

THE GERMAN AND FRENCH LANGUAGES.

Besides the two large and well-known distinctively Cosmopolitan Schools, previously established and deservedly popular, two others, the Valencia Street and the Hayes' Valley, have been made semi-cosmopolitan, by the appointment to each, of two special teachers, one of German and one of French. Each language now occupies half an hour daily in each class throughout these schools. Over 5,000 pupils are daily receiving free public instruction in German and French.

VOCAL MUSIC.

Under the new order, the special music teachers personally conduct one exercise a week in each Grammar and High School class, and direct the daily practice during their absence. The regular teacher of the class, having witnessed the special teacher's lesson, is required to devote at least ten minutes daily to its repetition and extension, and is held chiefly responsible for results. The new system works admirably; constantly redounding to the credit of its author, Prof. Mason, who personally introduced it. It is doubly valuable; first, for its own sake and own results; and, secondly, for the cheer and help which it gives to every other study.

DRAWING.

Drawing is now regularly taught, at least once a week, by specially qualified teachers, through the first and second grades of all the Grammar Schools, and in all High School classes. In third and fourth grade classes, and through all the primary grades, the regular class teacher is required to conduct it, with the help of books, cards or slates. Before completing the public school course, or even before graduating from the Grammar School, every faithful pupil may obtain a scientifically correct knowledge of at least the rudiments of linear, perspective and landscape drawing, or of mechanical and architectural planning and delineation. Some evening classes, composed chiefly of young mechanics, also receive similarly valuable training in drawing.

EDUCATING BOYS AND GIRLS TOGETHER.

Of the thirteen Grammar Schools of San Francisco, three are for girls alone, three for boys alone, and seven mixed. Whatever, therefore, may be the preference of any parent or guardian, he can easily gratify it in selecting a school. As society becomes more equally composed, families more numerous, and social life more safely settled, public opinion is obviously favoring the natural order. The more closely a school can resemble a family in composition or membership, as well as in association, discipline, culture and influence, the more naturally, harmoniously, speedily and completely will it accomplish its priceless ends.

When the families of earth are found to be composed, some wholly of boys and the rest wholly of girls, it will be ample time to favor the separation of the sexes in the most vital business of their younger life. At present, nature, reason and experience say: "Put the boys and girls together in schools, as God does in families!" And let every intelligent and progressive Director say "Amen!"

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

This institution, now in active operation in the City of Oakland, was organized by Act of the Legislature, approved March 23d, 1868. It embraces five distinct colleges, viz.: a College of Agriculture, of the Mechanic Arts, of Civil Engineering, of Mines, and Letters.

The management and control of the University are intrusted to a Board of Regents, composed of the following gentlemen:

Regents of the University.—Ex-officio: His Excellency Newton Booth, Governor, and President of the Board; His Honor, Romaldo Pacheco, Lieutenant-Governor; Hon. Thos. B. Shamon, Speaker of the Assembly; Hon. Henry N. Bolander, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Hon. Charles F. Reed, President of the State Agricultural Society, and A. S. Hallidie, Esq., President of the Mechanics' Institute of San Francisco. Appointed: Hon. Samuel Merritt, M. D., Oakland; John T. Doyle, Esq., Menlo Park; Hon. Richard P. Hammond, San Francisco; Hon. John W. Dwinelle, Oakland; Rev. Horatio Stebbins, San Francisco; Hon. Lawrence Archer, San José; J. West Martin, Grass Valley; Hon. Samuel B. McKee, Oakland. Honorary*: Louis Sachs, San Francisco; Hon. Edward Tompkins, Oakland; J. Mora Moss, Esq., Temescal; S. F. Butterworth, Esq., San Francisco; Hon. John S. Hager, San Francisco; A. J. Bowie, M. D., San Francisco; William C. Ralston, Esq., San Francisco; John B. Felton, Esq., Oakland.

Officers of the Board of Regents.—His Excellency Newton Booth, President; Andrew J. Moulder, Esq., Secretary; William C. Ralston, Esq., Treasurer; Office, No. 320 Sanson Street, San Francisco.

The University was inaugurated on the twenty-third of September, 1869, in the buildings formerly occupied by the College of California, in the City of Oakland. The following are

The Faculty and Officers.—Henry Durant, A.M., President; John Le Conte, M. D., Professor of Physics and Industrial Mechanics; Joseph Le Conte, M. D., Professor of Geology, Natural History and Botany; Martin Keillogg, A. M., Professor of Ancient Languages; W. T. Welcker, Professor of Mathematics; Paul Pioda, Professor of Modern Languages; Willard B. Rising, Professor of Mining and Metallurgy; Ezra S. Carr, M. D., Professor of Chemistry, Agriculture, Agricultural Chemistry and Horticulture; William Swinton, A. M., Professor of English Language and Literature, including Rhetoric and Logic; Robert E. Ogilby, Instructor of

* The term "Honorary" applied to these Regents, indicates only the mode of their election, which is made by the ex-officio and Appointed Regents. Every Regent, however appointed, is a voting, legislative and executive member of the Board.

Drawing; Frank Soulé, Jr., Assistant Professor of Mathematics; George Tait, Assistant Professor of Ancient Languages, and Master of the 5th Class.

The session opened with about fifty students, distributed into four classes, and attached to the various colleges. There are now, (March, 1872) two hundred and ninety-eight students in the University proper and Preparatory Department, and three hundred and fifty students at large in the Mechanic Arts College, a branch of which is located in San Francisco.

The University is now open to young ladies, on equal terms, in every respect, with males. Quite a number of young ladies have regularly entered.

The whole course of instruction, in each of the colleges, occupies four years. In each year there are three terms, ending, respectively, on the twenty-second of December, the sixth of April, and nineteenth of July, the last date being Commencement Day.

Method of Instruction.—In all the different colleges, the method of instruction is by means of lectures and the study of text-books, accompanied in either case by rigid daily examinations.

Optional Courses.—Besides the students pursuing the regular courses, any resident of California, of approved moral character, has the right to enter himself in the University as a student at large, and receive tuition in any branch or branches of instruction, at the time when the same are given in the regular course.

Expenses.—The University is absolutely free in the four higher classes. There is a small charge for tuition in the 5th class or Preparatory Department. There are no dormitories and no commons connected with the University. Students can obtain board and lodging at reasonable rates in private families in the City of Oakland. By forming clubs they can much reduce the price of board.

Equipment.—The University has been superbly equipped with apparatus of all kinds, of the most improved pattern. It has been selected with great care, and at a large expense, in the Atlantic States and Europe. Instruction in every branch of study, capable of illustration, is aided by instruments and appliances of the most approved workmanship and latest device.

The Site.—The University owns a beautiful tract of two hundred acres at Berkeley, situated four and a half miles north of Oakland. On this site, arrangements have been made to put up permanent and spacious buildings, capable of accommodating five hundred students, and provided with all the modern conveniences which experience can suggest. The whole cost is estimated at $250,000. Meantime the University is located in spacious buildings in the City of Oakland.

Private Educational Institutions.

The total number of colleges and private schools in this city is seventy-one; of which fifteen are under the control of the Catholic denomination. Many of these institutions are in a very flourishing condition, and the private schools will compare favorably with the public schools for thoroughness of instruction and excellence of discipline.

From the report of the school census for 1871, it will be seen that the number of children between six and fifteen years of age that have attended private schools for the year ending June 30th, 1871, was four thousand eight hundred and twenty-four. The number attending public schools for the same period, seventeen thousand, four hundred and thirty-four.

In addition to the attendance of the private schools, there are about nine hundred and fifty children under six years of age at the different infant schools, and about eleven hundred attending the higher private schools and colleges.

SANTA CLARA COLLEGE, SAN JOSE.

This establishment is under the superintendence of the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, and is open to all who choose to avail themselves of its advantages. It is situated in the beautiful valley of Santa Clara, so celebrated for the mildness and salubrity of its climate, and is about three miles distant from San Jose, and quite close to the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The College was founded in 1851. On the twenty-eighth of April, 1855, it was incorporated and empowered to confer degrees and academical honors, and to exercise all the rights and privileges common to any other literary institution in the United States. It has a full staff of professors, and presents advantages for the mental, physical and moral training of the students unsurpassed in California. It possesses a complete philosophical apparatus, purposely made in Paris for Santa Clara College, and furnished with all necessary instruments for experiments in mechanics, hydraulics, pneumatics, caloric, electricity, magnetism, optics, acoustics and surveying. New and important additions are being made every year to keep pace with the progress of science.

The chemical laboratory is provided with a full assortment of chemicals, a very good set of furnaces, and all that is necessary for the different kinds of chemical analyses. The museum of natural history comprises a valuable collection of mineralogy and geology; also three thousand specimens of shells and other natural curiosities. As an accessory to the scientific department there is a photographic gallery, where the students who wish may learn photography in all its different branches. Practical lessons are given also on the electric telegraph. The college library numbers about twelve thousand volumes. (See advertisement, page xli.)

Medical Colleges.

There are two medical colleges in this city—the "Toland Medical College," and the "Medical College of the Pacific." The latter was established in 1858, and was until 1872 the "Medical Department of the University of the Pacific." It is now the "Medical Department of University College," and is situated on Stockton Street near Geary. The former was established in 1864, under a special charter, and is situated on Stockton Street near Francisco. Both have a very efficient corps of professors—the most eminent physicians of the State. The attendance upon these colleges is not large; yet from some cause, both are continued with good assurance of success.

The clinical instruction given in connection with these institutions is unsurpassed by that of any other city of like population, owing to our ample hospital facilities, and the evenness of the temperature of our climate, which afford opportunities of witnessing all the varied types or phases of disease during any month of the year. The world cannot boast of a climate so peculiarly adapted to the practical teaching of anatomy by dissections.

There are peculiar advantages to students of medicine in attending at least one, if not both courses of medical instruction in the locality where they intend to practice. The most prominent of these advantages are the experience of the faculty in the diseases incident to the climate, and the opportunity of observing the peculiarities of these diseases under clinical instruction.

The healthful and invigorating influence of our climate is an additional inducement to strangers to visit here to pursue the study of medicine, and it is to be hoped that those who are to be the physicians and surgeons of the Pacific coast, will receive their degrees of "Doctor of Medicine" from our home institutions, which will greatly conduce to their success.

Heald's Business College.

The object of this school, as its name implies, is to educate for business. It is the leading commercial school of the Pacific coast, and one of the largest, most complete and most thorough institutions of the kind in the United States. During the past year it has had in attendance over six hundred students, which is a considerable increase over preceding years. Among its pupils are the sons of many of our most prominent business men. The plan of operation adopted by this school is quite novel and interesting. Instead of a dry and tedious study of mere text-books, actual practice in business affairs is so united to the theoretical study of accounts, penmanship, arithmetic, etc., that the progress of the student becomes easy and rapid. The information thus acquired is also of the most practical nature, and ready for immediate use. In order to carry out the system of business training, the school-room has been fitted up to represent a miniature business world. There are, in active operation, banks, jobbing and importing houses, insurance and real estate offices, commission houses, express offices, wholesale and retail merchandising houses, etc., etc. In all of these establishments an actual business is carried on by the student, who acts in turn as clerk, salesman, book-keeper, cashier, agent, merchant, broker and banker. In these various capacities he makes out all varieties of business and legal papers, and writes up notes, drafts, bills, statements of accounts, orders, receipts, invoices, account sales, certificates, bills of lading, contracts, deeds, leases, bills of sale, articles of co-partnership, etc. As a merchant he buys, sells, ships, consigns, orders, barter, insures, and keeps a complete and systematic record of his business transactions. As a banker he receives and pays out deposits, makes collections, loans, discounts, buys and sells exchanges, issues certificates of deposit, keeps the corporation books, issues and transfers stock, and enters up the results of all these transactions in the proper books. In fact, so thorough and practical is this system of instruction, that the graduates of this school are fitted to pass directly from the school-room to the counting-room.

This school is one of the Bryant & Stratton colleges, so long and favorably known in the Eastern States. The schools now number thirty-six, of the leading business colleges in the country, and are associated under the title of the "International Business College Association." This Association meets annually for the discussion and advancement of the cause of commercial education. The scholarships of this college are good for tuition in all the schools of the association.

There is also connected with the college a telegraph institute, where young men and ladies are fitted for telegraphic operators. This department has been fitted up at a great expense, and is one of the most complete of the kind in the country. The office is supplied with a great variety of telegraphic instruments and electrical apparatus. A line of wire has been extended around the city for the practice of the students, and there are at present over twenty offices on the line, thus affording pupils an opportunity of writing with experienced operators.

Within the past year a new feature of considerable importance has been introduced into this school. Until recently ladies have not been received into the college for tuition, but they are now admitted into all the school departments, and already about twenty five ladies are availing themselves of this opportunity for obtaining a practical education and learning telegraphy. We are told by the teachers that their progress has been very satisfactory in every case, thus demonstrating the fact that women can readily learn business.

This school is now permanently located in what is known as the College Building, at No. 24 Post

Street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets. This building was constructed about two years ago, and these apartments especially arranged for the college. The rooms are very fine for this purpose, and, we are told, are in every respect equal to those of the best schools of like nature in our largest Eastern cities. A visit to them during school hours will always prove interesting as well as instructive.

The faculty of the college comprises the following well known teachers and officers: E. P. Heald, President; F. C. Woodbury, Secretary; L. H. Clement and J. D. Blackman, Teachers of Accounts and Penmanship; F. Scregui, Professor of Plain and Ornamental Writing; H. M. Stearns, Teacher of Mathematics and English Studies; A. A. Heald, Book-keeping; O. Brooks, Superintendent of the Telegraphic Department; W. P. Casey, Surveying and Navigation; R. K. Piotrowski, Modern Languages; and Lloyd Baldwin, Commercial Law.

ACADEMIE PARISIENNE.—This new institution, the specialty of which is to instruct young ladies in French, has been established at 912 Sutter Street as a French Boarding and Day School. The building recently erected by Mme. Forster to accommodate the increasing wants of the School, formerly located on Bush Street, is large and commodious and furnished with all the modern improvements. The locality, as regards health and pleasant surroundings, cannot be surpassed. The Principal is Mme. Forster, well known as a preceptress of youth, and a lady who has had long experience in her profession. The method of instruction pursued is essentially the European. The Kindergarten system introduced into this School with such marked success, will be a leading feature of the Primary Department. Though every effort will be made and every facility afforded to secure for each pupil a thorough and complete English education, yet French will be the language of the School and of the household. All the appointments will be such as will afford the pupils every advantage to be secured in a first-class French boarding school.

Young ladies having completed their English course of studies, and wishing to acquire fluency in the French language, or to pursue any other branch taught in the School, can do so provided they will conform to the regulations of the household. If desired by parents or guardians, pupils will have the same facilities for acquiring German. Boarding pupils will be accommodated with large cheerful rooms and excellent board, and the surroundings and household regulations will be such as will give a home-like charm to every department connected therewith. Special attention will be given to the physical development and the moral and social culture of the pupils. Exercises in Calisthenics will be given daily. The government of the Academy will be mild and impartial, but firm and prompt obedience and lady-like deportment will be required of all. Course of Study—French, German, and as complete an English course as is usually taught in our best seminaries. Those who desire can take a select course.

Benevolent and Social Societies.

The acquisition of California by the American Republic drew the attention of the world to this coast, and when, a short time subsequently, the announcement was made of the marvelous fields found here, the bold, the enterprising and the adventurous of every country, race, religion and character, turned their steps hither, and the most cosmopolitan State of our Union was created. A people of such elements, widely separated from their native homes, friends and associations, and governments, naturally gathered each to his class, order, or nation, and thus, at an early date, at the central part of the country, were formed some of those societies of grand benevolence which now form so distinguishing a feature of San Francisco's society. The very isolation, so far removed from the succor of relatives or the protection of their flag made these organizations a necessity, and the generous and kindly spirit pervading the brave pioneer class with the abundant wealth the soil gave, rendered such associations more than usually effective. Sickness and death are inevitable, and want, through accident, disease or improvidence, is the lot of some, however bonny the country, or genial the climate. To relieve suffering, assist the depressed, and bury the dead, have been the objects of the benevolent societies formed. The good deeds accomplished, and the constant care and watchfulness exercised, have given to San Francisco a world-wide reputation which is richly deserved. Aside from the organized societies, the popular benevolence is proven by the large sums often given for various objects at the call of charity or sympathy. Millions of dollars have been sent abroad when the good heart thought it was required to alleviate distress either among our own people or those of foreign lands, and never is relief called in vain for any individual case of destitution found in our midst. Fortunately cases of destitution are rare, and the provisions made by the law and by social organizations prevent any necessity for such distress as drives to importunate beggary.

The large sums sent with such a willing hand to aid the sick and wounded of the Union armies during the war of the rebellion and which constituted such a noble support, will always be referred to, in this connection, with just pride. A similar exhibition of benevolence and patriotic sympathy has been manifested on the part of the German and French citizens during the late war in Europe, each party having sent to their suffering countrymen nearly a quarter of a million dollars to aid the wounded of the battle field, assist the widows and orphans, and restore prosperity as far as it lay in their power. The grand piles of gold sent to the distant home will stand as a lasting monument of the golden State of the far West, and of the munificence of her people. Upwards of four hundred thousand dollars were collected and reunited in the brief space of six months, the free contributions of those classes of our citizens. More recently over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars were collected to relieve the sufferings occasioned by the disastrous conflagration in Chicago.

As individuals, and the citizens en masse, have shown unequalled benevolence, so do they manifest the same disposition in their numerous organizations for social and charitable purposes. There are now eighty-five such organizations in the city and many of these are divided into lodges, groves, stamms, vereins, councils, posts, etc., making a total of one hundred and ninety-three, some having upwards of a thousand members. These are of every class of reputable orders, and include those of every nationality that make up our population. From their number and strength it would appear that nearly all the people of San Francisco were members of one or other of these orders. Their wealth is shown in the possession of asylums, halls, hospitals, and schools, and the fine appearance members make on days of public celebration.

As their name implies, the general object of the societies is benevolence, assisting unfortunate members, or their wives and children, when in sickness, burying them when dead, or, if of foreign birth, aiding their return to their native land. But by no means do all limit their charities to their members. Several of these noble organizations are controlled by ladies whose care is for the orphan, the sick, and needy of all classes, and for the reclamation of the degraded of their own sex. Two asylums, generous homes for the tender orphans, are under their control, and the excellent condition of the charge is evidence of the care bestowed. As early as 1851, the gentle Sisters of Charity, as ever devoting their lives to the holy cause of doing good to others, founded the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum on Market street, and have continued it with the addition of schools and further extensions to the present. The Protestant Orphan Asylum founded by prominent ladies of this city in 1851, and on Laguna street near Market, have erected an elegant and commodious building, costing $60,000. At the asylum are two hundred and forty children unfortunate in their orphanage, but most fortunate in having such a noble home and parental care as the benevolent ladies have prepared for them. During the past year our Hebrew citizens have organized the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum, and have adopted measures for the speedy erection of a building that will meet the wants of that portion of our population.

But the ladies' charity does not end here. The San Francisco Female Hospital; the Lying-in and Foundling Asylum; the Magdalen Asylum; the St. Mary's Ladies' Society and numerous others, attest the scope of their ministering care. The kind attention and the liberal expenditures by the ladies of San Francisco, without distinction of nationality, race, or religion, is most honorable and praiseworthy, and is a subject of just pride to every citizen of San Francisco.

The broad field of labor of the San Francisco Benevolent Association has been well filled, the members exercising a generous guardianship over the distress and wants of the City. No membership of other societies, nor any race or condition, forbid their action, but their compassion, like the cloak of charity, covers all. The Young Men's Christian Association occupies a noble position among the benevolent societies of San Francisco. Possessing a fine hall, with library, gymnasium, baths, etc., it is well enabled to extend the hand of charity to all, to guide the erring, and to give pleasure and instruction to its members and protégés.

The benevolent societies, composed of people of foreign birth, for the object of aiding their fellow-countrymen, are numerous and efficient. The English, Scotch, Welsh and Irish have their organizations divided into several classes and divisions, all with a large number of members. The British Benevolent Society exercises a supervision over the wants of the subjects of that empire. The Germans, French, Italians, Russians, Portuguese, Mexicans, Greeks, Scandinavians, Slavonians, Hebrews and Chinese, maintain organizations for the same purpose, showing a benevolence of the highest character, and most worthily occupying their appropriate field of usefulness. The German General Benevolent Society is a large and effective organization, having one thousand three hundred and forty-two members residing in the city, and four hundred and eighty in the interior. This generous society maintains a hospital worthy of its high character, and which would be an honor to any city or state.

The French Benevolent Society is an institution in keeping with the most noble of its class here, where the rank is of the highest grade. This society has one of the finest hospitals of the State, occupying a spacious block bounded by Fifth and Sixth streets, and south of Bryant Street. This is a spacious edifice of brick, with pleasant gardens and ornamented grounds surrounding it, making it a most desirable home to the invalid. Other nationalities maintain their hospitals and their homes, thus indicating the care taken of all, and the unbounded benevolence of all classes and peoples who have made San Francisco their abiding place.

The secret orders and societies are in great number and of high standing. Masonic, Odd Fellows, Druids, Red Men, etc., are bodies of great wealth and usefulness, and fill an important place in the society of San Francisco. Several of these possess stately edifices, have extensive libraries, maintain banks, publish papers, and in various ways manifest their importance and perform their duties. Added to these are the Immigrant Aid Association, Prison Association, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and numerous others, showing the broad field occupied. The extent and character of these compare favorably with the Social and Benevolent societies of any other land, and are a matter of just pride to every citizen. Their maintenance usually depends upon voluntary contributions or exactions by the rules of membership. To some of these, efficient support could not be obtained in such a manner; and being of general benefit, aid from the State was obtained. Thus, in part, are the three Orphan Asylums, San Francisco Female Hospital, Foundling Hospital, Prison Commissions, Magdalen Asylum, Lying-in Hospital, and Ladies' Protection and Relief Society maintained.

The Appendix on page 832 contains a complete list of the different organizations, exhibiting in detail their operations during the past year and their present condition, to which attention is invited.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

This association, founded in 1853, has for its object the moral, mental, and social improvement of young men. It has, at its elegant building on Sutter Street, a fine reading room, library, gymnasium, lecture room, etc. It is also the design of the association to provide, so far as possible, employment, a place of social comfort and resort, and a local point of pleasant attraction for young men arriving in the city without other acquaintance than those made here. The library contains about four thousand volumes of well-selected and valuable works, embracing all branches of literature; and the reading-room is supplied with the best newspapers and leading periodicals of the country.

The regular meetings of the association are held on the third Monday evening of each month, when the usual business is transacted; and when there is not a pressure of business, literary and musical exercises are held.

The building of the association is on the north side of Sutter, between Kearny and Dupont streets; is built of brick, with a massive and ornate stone front, and is one hundred and twenty feet deep by fifty-four and a half feet wide. The basement and ground floors are occupied by stores, the second floor by the library, reading room, ladies' rooms, chess room, ante-rooms, and a hall for lectures, etc., which has a capacity for seating seven hundred and fifty persons. Beneath the lecture room is a gymnasium, and in the third story are committee rooms, hall for meetings of the association, and apartments for offices, etc., for rent. The edifice is well arranged with every convenience for comfort and for the purposes for which it was designed.

SAN FRANCISCO BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

Of all the benevolent institutions established in our city, none have been productive of more real, substantial and lasting good, in proportion to the means employed, than the San Francisco Benevolent Association. Although only seven years old, filling up, as it has done, a most important hiatus in the benevolent institutions of the day, this association has, in a quiet and unpretentious way, been productive of incalculable good.

The number of persons assisted since its organization is as follows: From April, 1865, to April, 1866, seven thousand six hundred and thirty-two; April, 1866, to April, 1867, seven thousand four hundred and five; April, 1867, to April, 1868, six thousand seven hundred and eighty-two; April, 1868, to April, 1869, seven thousand one hundred and forty-eight; April 1869, to April, 1870, seven thousand and twenty-four; April, 1870, to April, 1871, eight thousand one hundred and sixty; April, 1871, to April, 1872, eight thousand two hundred and fifty—making a total of fifty-two thousand four hundred and one persons, at a cost of $188,325 75.

THE CALIFORNIA IMMIGRANT UNION.

The immediate cause of the establishment of this society was the attempt of Mr. W. H. Martin, of Baltimore, to form in this city a branch of the International Union, of which he was General Agent. The committee of merchants and others to whom the subject was referred at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, reported in favor of a distinct organization for California; and accordingly in October, 1869, the California Immigrant Union was formed for the promotion of immigration to California. This it was proposed to do by the publication and dissemination of information concerning the resources of the State, and the inducements offered to immigration, its vacant government and private lands, and the means and cost of coming here, and facilitating by every possible means the travel of immigrants, and their location and settlement upon their arrival, and the establishment of foreign agencies for the same purpose. At the session of the Legislature of 1869-70, a strong effort was made to procure an appropriation of public monies to carry out these objects under the management of Commissioners appointed by the Governor or otherwise, acting independently or in conjunction with the officers of the Union. Differences of opinion as to the amount of such an appropriation, and the details of such a bill, prevented any legislation upon the subject, and the effort failed.

The merchants of San Francisco, though discouraged, were so thoroughly impressed with the importance of the movement, that, in April, 1870, they subscribed the funds necessary for the support of the Union, though its operations were necessarily more restricted than was originally contemplated. Since then it has been actively engaged in its work, and a large amount of printed information relative to the climate and resources of California has been circulated throughout the Eastern States, Canada, Australia, England, and Europe, and supplied in answer to a very extensive correspondence requesting such information. Immigrants upon their arrival, on application at the office of the Union, are supplied with such information as they desire concerning the Government lands, private lands, etc., and routes and expense of travel, and otherwise facilitated in their settlement. Correspondence is replied to and information supplied gratuitously to those abroad who desire to be informed concerning the State, and every legitimate effort made to induce those coming westward to select California as their future home, and assist in the development of its resources. From December, 1869, to December, 1871, the number of applicants for information in reference to public lands, from the United States, amounted to 2,546; from foreign countries, 876, making a total of 3,422—most of whom have been comfortably settled, and are well pleased with the country. No fee or charge whatever is made for services rendered. The office of the Union is at No. 316 California Street. Its officers are, C. T. Hopkins, President; Charles S. Capp, First Vice-President and Manager; W. H. Martin, Secretary and General Agent.

Hospitals.

In so far as number and size are concerned the hospitals of San Francisco will compare favorably with those of other cities of its extent and population. Private institutions abound. The Germans and French have for years had fine hospital buildings, the one belonging to the latter having recently received extensive additions. The Sisters of Mercy own a large structure on Rincon Hill; and the Italians have within a few years completed a commodious hospital four miles from the business part of the city. The special purpose of these hospitals is to provide for the necessities of certain classes of our population, but all who desire to avail themselves of their advantages are admitted. The buildings are not only commodious, but are well adapted for the purposes designed. It is to be regretted that the same remark cannot be made of the one belonging to the city. Several years since, authority was given the Supervisors to cause to be erected a hospital building, suitable to the requirements of our rapidly growing city, and $250,000 was appropriated for the purpose. For some reason or other, no steps, beyond procuring plans, toward the construction of this much needed building were taken until recently. The buildings now in use are altogether inadequate for their purposes. The principal one was constructed for a school house and converted into a hospital in 1857. Some years later a large wooden building—little better than a barn, was put up on the same lot. As the city grew and the number of "indigent sick" increased, various means were adopted to supply immediate necessities. In 1867, a large Almshouse was commenced near Lake Honda. The removal of the superannuated and permanently disabled to this place, from the City and County Hospital, where they had been accumulating for years, relieved the latter of a serious inconvenience, and increased its capacity for those actually sick. The Hospital, however, was soon filled to overflowing again, and so great had this overcrowding become at the beginning of 1870, that it called forth a remonstrance from the San Francisco Medical Society, which appointed a committee to institute suitable investigations. This committee found that the hospital contained 408 beds scarcely one of which was vacant; that the average space to each bed was 490 cubic feet, some having as low as 260 cubic feet, and none having so much as a thousand, while in all properly constructed hospitals of the present day, not less than 1200 cubic feet are allowed to each patient. In consequence of this report, an additional building was erected upon the hospital lot, thus relieving, in large part, the overcrowding, but greatly curtailing the grounds. As this was but a temporary measure, it was hoped the new hospital would be commenced at once. The delay has been such, however, as to make us fear the necessity of using indefinitely the old tumble-down hospital, which would disgrace any city in America. But doubts have now given place to certainty. The hospital building is in actual process of erection, and will probably be completed by the end of May, 1872. It is to be a building, too, worthy of the object in view; and having a much more suitable location than the present one. It is to occupy the two blocks bounded by Nevada, Sierra and Nebraska streets and Potrero Avenue, fronting on the latter. These measure 866 feet by 481 feet, a sufficient area for hospital purposes for many years to come. The plan of the building is entirely different from that usually adopted. Several individual structures, most of them at considerable distance from each other, but connected by a long covered corridor, unite to form the hospital. With the exception of the kitchen and laundry, which will be of brick, all the buildings are of wood with brick foundation. The individual structures are: The administrative and dining-hall buildings, each three stories high, situated in the centre of the block, opposite each other, and on either side of the centre of the covered corridor, which is 556 feet long and 18 feet wide, and runs lengthwise of the block; the kitchen and laundry, back of the dining-rooms; the chapel, at the south end of the corridor; the gate-house, stable, morgue, operating room, dressing room, etc., scattered about in various places; and lastly, six pavilions, each two stories high, and each designed to accommodate sixty-four patients (with their nurses), thirty-two on a floor. It is proposed to have eventually twelve pavilions, to be built in pairs opposite each other on either side of the long corridor and parallel to the main buildings; the first pairs on either side of the main buildings being a hundred feet from them, the second pairs a hundred feet from the first, and so on. But the present purpose is to build only six of these pavilions, which will give the hospital a capacity for only three hundred and eighty-four patients, and will either necessitate the retention of the old buildings at North Beach for some patients, or require the erection of new pavilions almost immediately, if overcrowding, so much complained of before, is to be avoided. However, we are not disposed to find fault, as in any event, the new accommodations will be far superior to those we have suffered under so long.

For some years our private hospitals have greatly excelled the public institutions. This was not always so. When built, in 1853, the United States Marine Hospital, on Rincon Point, was one of the finest and most conspicuous structures in the city. It was calculated to contain about eight hundred patients, and must have been planned by one who had the most extravagant anticipations of the growth of San-Francisco, as it has rarely had over a hundred inmates. Though a considerable distance from the settled part of the city, when built, it is now so surrounded by improvements that its site has become desirable for commercial purposes, and strenuous efforts have been made for its removal. Extensive grading of the surrounding property has left the building upon a high embankment and somewhat impaired its foundation, though it is believed that any further injury might be prevented by proper care. The severe earthquake too, of 1868, did much to render the building unsafe, and it was soon afterwards vacated. It is unknown what disposition is to be made of the structure. The patients have been moved from one locality after another, since their exodus and are apparently as far from the "promised land" as ever.

Besides the institutions enumerated above, there are several smaller ones which have been established through the munificence of our citizens, and whose names indicate their special uses; these are the State Woman's Hospital, the San Francisco Woman's Hospital, the Foundling and Lying-in Asylum, etc., etc.

At a rough estimate it may be stated that our city hospitals, public and private, (exclusive of the old Marine Hospital building, now vacant) can accommodate from thirteen hundred to fourteen hundred patients, and that the average number which they actually contain does not vary much from one thousand.

In the Fall of 1865 was created the San Francisco Health office; before this time no mortality records had been preserved by the city. In 1870, a bill passed the Legislature organizing a city Board of Health, and giving it control of the Health Office and the appointments in all the public charitable institutions of the city and county. From a small beginning, the Health department has grown into a very important branch of the city government. It controls appointments involving an expense to the city of several thousand dollars a month, and has a general oversight of all sanitary affairs. If its operations are conducted with wisdom, foresight and intelligence, this department is calculated to be of great benefit to the city.

Associations---Protective, Literary, Etc.

For a description of the different associations, the reader is referred to the Appendix, pages 869-916, in which will be found the officers and operations of each during the past year. The progress made by many of these associations reflects credit upon the members thereof, and is worthy of the liberality so generously extended in their support.

Libraries.

It may be set down as a fixed fact that there is no surer indication of the progression and prosperity of a community than the number and condition of its libraries. In this department, San Francisco may safely challenge competition with any city of its age in the range of civilization. The Public Libraries are numerous and respectable, and notwithstanding the activity and energy exhibited by her citizens in every department of life, the statistics of these institutions prove beyond controversy that they are at the same time essentially a reading people. Not physical alone, but mental activity is a prominent characteristic of our population.

In addition to these libraries, several of the hotels of the city are provided with large and well-selected collections of books for the use of guests. That belonging to the What Cheer House numbers about seven thousand volumes of well-selected works, connected with which is an extensive cabinet of specimens in natural history, and a large number of paintings, with a marble bust by Powers, copied by that artist from his statue of California, and a fancy head in marble by Gault, an eminent sculptor.

Want of space prevents a reference in detail to the numerous public libraries in this city, prominent among which may be named the Mercantile Library Association, containing thirty thousand volumes; Odd Fellows', twenty thousand; Mechanics' Institute, nineteen thousand; San Francisco Law Library, six thousand; Young Men's Christian Association, four thousand; California Pioneers, fifteen hundred and fifty; San Francisco Verein, four thousand.

Fire Department.

The new paid Fire Department has been in operation since December 31, 1867, and has fully met the expectations of those under whose direction its management is placed. On page 804 of this volume will be found the law organizing the Department; and on page 863 is a description in detail, in which will be found a mass of information concerning the different companies, useful to its members and interesting to every citizen.

Local Manufactures.

Manufactures are in themselves a wonderful source of wealth and material prosperity to any community in which they are wisely fostered; but when supplemented by a lavish abundance of raw material possessing the qualities of cheapness and excellence, and are prosecuted in a country whose climate renders every day in the year available for active operations, they assume a position of transcendent importance. These are the more salient points of advantage pertaining to manufactures in California, although in many localities outside of San Francisco they have the additional aid of copious, felicitously distributed water power, and good lumber supplies. In the metropolis, where steam is exclusively the motive power, greater difficulties have presented themselves by reason of the cost for fuel; the value of land as sites for suitable buildings, high rents and high rates of interest. Severe as have been the trials of our entire metropolitan manufacturers, they have been surmounted with an energy and perseverance, which more than any other one thing demonstrates the unyielding pluck and nerve of our people. Nearly all the great manufacturing centers of the globe owe their success to the abundance of cheap fuel, cheap iron, and cheap money at their command. Of this fact, England is the most striking example. Dependent upon all the rest of the world for not only the bulk of raw materials which her skilled workmen convert into fabrics of prime necessity and inexhaustible consumption, but even for the very food necessary for the support of her people, she is, at this day, the great work-shop of the globe, controlling its commerce, and dictating much of its policy. Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York forcibly show the wonderful ascendancy of extensive manufacturing interests in the annals of the Nation. It is not necessary to enter upon an elaborate discussion of so vital a point in a cursory treatise on the present status of our manufacturing industries, to which these remarks are merely introductory. Every reader will form his own conclusions of our progress in this department of productive industry, by perusing the subjoined statements. As the centering point of capital, and the population, commerce and enterprise which capital naturally attracts, San Francisco has necessarily become also the central point of the mechanic arts on the Pacific slope of this continent.

Her progress in this direction has been facilitated within late years by the working of large native coal mines contiguous to the theatre of operations; the consequent decline in the cost of material for generating steam; the successful conversion of crude petroleum into fuel for that purpose, although not yet utilized on a large scale; the construction of railroad communication with the interior, and the great east, and the gradual, but certain decline of interest rates to a standard that will warrant the employment of capital in manufacturing enterprises. That more extensive and varied operations in this field of productive industry have become an actual necessity, imposed by the growth of our population and the consequent increased consumption of manufactured articles, can scarcely be doubted in the face of the following statistical deductions arrived at by the writer of a well considered article in the Oceand Monthly. He says:

"In 1868 we bought foreign goods to the amount of $15,000,000, and Eastern goods, $13,000,000; paid freights and duties, $16,000,000; so that the total cost to us (in first hands) was $74,000,000. We resold these goods to the amount of $5,000,000; probably one-third of the freight money was paid out again in the port—say $2,500,000; the balance was remitted to owners; giving a total of $67,000,000 to be remitted. During the first nine months of the current year, we have purchased to the amount of $13,300,000; have paid freights and duties, $13,700,000; total, (in first hands) $57,000,000. We have resold of the goods and been repaid of the freight money, $5,500,000; leaving to be remitted for, $51,500,000. In the twenty-one months, the gross remittance called for is $118,500,000. On this account, our remittance in produce has been $30,000,000; railroad bonds, $6,000,000; the balance, treasure, $82,500,000. * * * Of said total, foreign goods called for (including their duties and freight) $13,750,000; leaving, as remittance on our Atlantic account, $74,750,000. That sum—paid to the Atlantic in less than two years—was composed of $8,000,000 paid to their ship-owners, and the balance to their manufacturers. The whole of these Atlantic goods were manufactured. More than half their value represented the wages that had been paid in their manufacture. In less than two years, then, we have paid $40,000,000 directly as wages to Eastern mill-hands and Lynn boot-makers. * * * We pay freights on that Atlantic merchandise, $5,000,000 per annum; the wages paid on it amount to $25,000,000. We can afford, therefore, to pay our workmen about one-fifth more wages than are paid at the East. During the same period of twenty-one months, the product of bullion and surplus of raw produce united were insufficient to settle the trade-balance, and the previous stock of coin was drawn upon, to the amount of about $7,000,000, to make up the deficiency."

It must be evident from the foregoing unpleasant exhibit that to continue such a state of dependence upon outside resources must eventuate ruinously, as, in the course of time, we should not possess the wherewith to pay for our purchases. Able minds became deeply interested in the solution of this problem, and, as a reanimating influence, recourse was had to grand annual displays of our manufacturing industries, at which the freest competition was invited, and suitable recognition given to merit. Stimulated by the renown achieved in several important branches, and the pecuniary success attending it, our manufactories have received an impulse which promises to enlarge the field, and rule out of our markets many lines of goods that have been heretofore the exclusive products of exterior industries. In the mean time, our mercantile houses have been vigorously seconding the efforts of local manufacturers by regaining possession of markets temporarily lost to us by reason of the facilities which the transcontinental railroads furnished for the introduction of cheap Eastern fabrics. Experience has convinced interior consumers that articles of California make, although of higher first cost than those of Eastern composition, invariably give better satisfaction, being more durable, of superior quality, and of pure raw materials. A revulsion of trade has been the result, and under its influence, our manufactories, during 1871, were in a much more prosperous condition than for two years anterior, with the gratifying prospect of greater development in quantity as well as variety. That our whole energies have not been confined to commerce, mining and agriculture, is sufficiently attested by the eight hundred and odd factories of different kinds which pulsate and throbb within the precincts of this metropolis, employing an aggregate capital of $12,500,000, consuming raw material to the value of $24,000,000 annually, and turning out manufactured articles worth $16,000,000. Foremost among the mechanical arts is the production of iron and steel, as it supplies the machinery and implements requisite for the prosecution of all other branches of industry. Our leading iron foundries are the Union, Miner's, Fulton, Vulcan, Etna, Pacific, Golden State, Phoenix, Pioneer, Portland, California, Eureka, Occidental, Columbia, Risdon Boiler Works, and the Pacific Rolling Mill Company. All of these are in a high condition of effectiveness, being in full blast, and using at least thirty per cent. more raw material than usual. These establishments are large and complete, possessing all the requisite appliances for the production of the several specialties to which they are devoted. The aggregate value of castings turned out during the year 1871 was not less than $3,000,000, and this amount has been steadily increasing under the pressure of augmented foreign, as well as domestic, requirement. The total number of hands employed is about thirteen hundred, subject to temporary modifications. Japan and China have been added to the list of our customers in this line of trade, and although their demands as yet are comparatively small, there is reason to hope that they will achieve signal proportions at no distant date. The onward strides recently made by Japan necessitates the use of improved machinery and agricultural implements, while the geographical position and superior facilities possessed by San Francisco point to her as being the natural market of supplies.

The Pacific Rolling Mills commenced operations in August, 1866, and have been established on a large scale, with first class appointments and abundant working capital. They are eligibly located, convenient to deep water, and readily accessible to ships of heavy tonnage. This establishment fills an important void, and is in all respects an invaluable addition to our artificial resources, rendering us quite independent of eastern manufacturers for an extensive line of articles indispensable to progress. Anchors, chains, steamship shafts of the largest dimensions, railroad iron, and a multiplicity of other equally valuable aids to commerce, manufactures and agriculture, are the products of this prominent industry.

The Union Foundry is the pioneer on this coast, having been commenced in a very humble and unpretending manner in 1849, but has kept pace with the growth of the city and State, and now covers an area of 50,000 square feet, on which every branch of the business is conducted, with eminent skill and success.

The Miners' Foundry is amply supplied with the requisites for conducting a large business, and employs an average of one hundred and fifty hands; the number varying somewhat to correspond with the pressure upon its capabilities. Its annual consumption of the raw material is about 2,200 tons of iron, pig and wrought, and between 700 and 800 tons of coal.

In 1850, the Pacific Iron Works were added to our growing manufacturing interests, and have met with very gratifying success. Engine lathes, iron planers, drills, punches, shears, and many other tools and implements of kindred character are made here in great excellence. From one hundred and thirty to one hundred and forty hands are almost constantly employed, and the consumption of raw materials amounts annually to 800 tons of coal and 2,000 tons of iron, including pig, bar, and plate.

Stove castings, ornamental iron fronts for buildings, fences, etc., are specialties in the Etna Works, which consume an average of 700 tons of iron, and employ 34 men.

Iron castings of every possible description used in the construction of buildings, are turned out in quantities to suit at the Atlas Works, which keep a force of thirty men in constant occupation. Much of the iron which adorns the fronts of many buildings in San Francisco was the product of this establishment.

The Fulton Works employ sixty men, and consume annually 600 tons of iron and about 400 tons of coal.

Iron safes, doors, shutters, vaults, mantels, etc., are the regular products of the Phoenix Works, occupying the time and skill of 25 workmen and consuming between 280 and 300 tons of iron every year.

The Empire, Pioneer, Eureka, Columbia and other foundries, are all in the full tide of successful operation, while the Risdon Boiler Works find no lack of demand for the admirable products of its skill and industry; nor is this demand glutted by the large surplus furnished by the Portland Boiler Works.

It has become proverbial that machinery of nearly all kinds—especially for mining purposes, agricultural implements and mechanics' tools—are made in San Francisco of a better quality and more serviceable character than anywhere else in the Union. A knowledge of this important fact, as ascertained by actual use and comparison, is driving foreign and Eastern fabrics of this kind from all our domestic markets, as well as those of distant interior points such as Utah, Idaho, Montana, Arizona and even New Mexico. Fanning machines, corn-shellers, and other simple implements of kindred character, and of San Francisco manufacture, are now frequently seen among the Pimo, Maricopa and Papago Indians, to whom they prove invaluable assistants.

Of notable importance are the Selby Silver and Lead Smelting and Reduction Works, covering a vast expanse and fitted with every appliance for conducting these operations on a grand scale. They are the most extensive and complete in the Union, and are susceptible of being greatly enlarged. This establishment is most advantageously located, at the very edge of deep water, where the heaviest ships can load with facility and dispatch. The works are now capable of consuming 1,200 tons of lead and silver ore per month, for refining, and 1,000 tons per month for smelting and reduction. On several occasions 1,000 tons of pig-lead per month have been landed in New York, and a regular monthly supply of from 400 to 500 tons is maintained for exportation to the East, besides the large quantities required for domestic and interior consumption. The superiority of our lead is now universally admitted, while the quality of the sheet lead, lead pipe, and shot turned out at the Shot Tower—which is an auxiliary to the Smelting and Refining Works—is not equaled by the like fabrics of other places. Two sets of hands are employed, night and day, and number collectively over 130 men, many of them having families which are comfortably and independently supported through the agency of this great industry. In addition to the lead obtained from the ores by these works, large quantities of gold and silver ore are also extracted, amounting during the past year to the handsome sum of over $800,000. The importance of such enterprises cannot be over-estimated. Large and numerous as are the gold, silver, lead, copper and zinc working establishments of San Francisco, they are not yet adequate to the full and efficient working of those leading interests, but their capacity is capable of indefinite extension, with the prospect of being fully taxed at no very remote period.

This city contains fourteen different establishments devoted to the manufacture of gold and silver ware, employing an aggregate capital of $225,000, and fabricating articles valued at $430,000 per annum.

The business of assaying and refining gold and silver is energetically pursued, with profit, affording large facilities, indispensable to a first-class gold and silver producing region. Heavy sums, formerly shipped to Oriental countries in Mexican dollars, as the only exchangeable medium for teas, silks, spices, etc., are now forwarded in refined silver and gold bars, facilitating commerce, and rendering our precious metals available for trade on a more liberal basis. Most of the gold and silver coined at the Branch Mint, is now refined at private offices. Nearly one-half the entire gold and silver product of this Coast is refined in San Francisco.

Our wooden fabrics are diversified and important, although for some of the materials employed we are dependent upon Eastern supplies. This is especially the case in the manufacture of wagons, buggies, carriages, and other articles requiring the use of hickory, white oak and walnut. We are fairly furnished with saw mills; sash, door and blind factories; cooperages; furniture makers; billiard table constructors; piano makers; wooden ware and broom manufacturers; boat builders; and other similar concerns, numbering one hundred and twenty-two, turning out an aggregate annual value of $1,000,000 worth of perfected articles.

The brass foundries of San Francisco are six in number, with a joint capacity for running about 180 tons of brass and copper per year, and employing, in the aggregate, from 150 to 160 men.

A. S. Hallidie is proprietor of the only wire and rope works on the Coast. The establishment went into operation in 1857, and has met with a large measure of success, the demand being somewhat urgent, and steady. This gentleman has recently invented a cheap and ready mode for the conveyance of ores to mill, by means of buckets or cars suspended on wire ropes, which traverse mountainous ridges inaccessible to ordinary modes of transportation. The works are capable of supplying from twelve hundred to fourteen hundred tons of wire rope per annum, besides manufacturing largely in the way of screens, sieves, wire cloth, cables for suspension bridges, and other like articles.

The Woolen Mills of San Francisco have earned a world-wide celebrity for the admitted superiority of the goods manufactured by them, and the extent to which their operations have reached. In 1858 the Pioneer Woolen Mills were erected at Black Point, but did not go into active operation until the year subsequent. Its productive power admits of the annual consumption of 3,000,000 pounds of wool, which is manufactured into blankets, broadcloths, tweeds, cassimeres, and table covers: Three hundred and fifty-five persons of various ages, sexes and nationalities compose the operative force in its several departments. The goods are of admirable texture and superior finish, finding ready sale and large consumption.

The Mission Woolen Mills having combined with the Pacific Woolen Mills, do a very large and thriving business. The products of this establishment entered into competition with those of many other countries at the grand "Exposition Universelle" at Paris, and carried off the prize for superior excellence. The Mission Works proper were erected in 1861, having a greater capacity than any other like factory in the State. Since its combination with the Pacific Mills its range of textile fabrics has been materially enlarged and diversified, including very superior blankets, broadcloths, cassimeres, tweeds, flannels, shawls, cloakings, hosiery, and all sorts of knitted goods. The joint consumption of these mills amounts to nearly 3,000,000 pounds of wool and 200,000 pounds of cotton annually, giving employment to between 700 and 800 operatives, male and female. The amount of capital invested is over one million of dollars, and the value of the products yearly turned out is from $2,800,000 to $3,000,000. Large supplies of Australian wool have been recently imported for these works, which will still further enlarge their field of operations, manufacturing lines of goods not heretofore made on this coast. The stock of raw material on hand is quite sufficient for the entire consumption of 1872, and being obtained on favorable terms will prove a profitable investment.

A rather isolated representative of its class is the Pacific Cordage Factory, organized in 1856, and now grown to large proportions. Its extreme length is 1,500 feet, while the building which contains the spinning department is 100 feet long by 40 feet wide. It is driven by powerful machinery, employs over 50 hands, and consumes annually more than 2,000,000 pounds of the raw material.

In contrast with these single industries are the twelve tanneries of San Francisco, producing each year a large amount of manufactured goods, superior in quality to that of eastern make. We have been not only sufficiently provided by these establishments, but have a considerable surplus of California tanned leather for export.

Of glass factories we have two, jointly employing from 100 to 110 hands, and producing about $200,000 worth of manufactured articles every year. At these nearly all kinds of glass, with the exception of flint, are furnished for the market. Supplementary to these works is an establishment for making French plate glass for mirrors, and for re-silvering or removing blemishes from imported articles of this kind. Cutting, grinding, polishing and ornamenting glassware is also prosecuted to some extent in this city, but not sufficiently to supply our growing wants in this department.

We boast the possession of two candle factories, jointly producing from 60,000 to 70,000 boxes per year. The consumption of candles has now reached to 270,000,000 boxes per annum, equal to 5,400,000 pounds, with an ever increasing demand, especially for mining and tunneling purposes. This important industry is, however, hampered by the duty of one cent per pound levied on imported tallow—for, San Francisco being the only portion of the Union which imports that article, (the Atlantic cities beiing all exporters) the tax is partial and injuriously discriminating. Efforts are on foot to obtain the abolition of this tax, and give our local manufacturers an equal opportunity with others throughout the country.

Some thirteen local soap factories furnish these cleansing products to the people of this coast. They turn out in the neighborhood of 12,000,000 pounds per year, including all varieties, such as plain, fancy, ornamental, toilet, and washing powders—enough to supply all our own wants, besides exporting largely to Mexico, Central and South America, the Pacific Oceania, and British Columbia.

The glue factory is flourishing, making enough for home consumption and considerable for export. The same concern also makes neatfoot oil.

The several oil works of San Francisco include those for refining crude petroleum, sperm and whale oils, the manufacture of linseed oil, and expressing oil from sunflower, castor and other seeds. They are all doing an active and lucrative business. The Leaming Petroleum Company, recently organized in this city, is now engaged in furnishing considerable quantities of crude petroleum for gas companies, who refine it for market and convert it into gas.

Several match factories are in full and paying operation. But a few years ago we were wholly dependent on outside sources for these articles of constant and large demand; we now export them in great quantities. During 1871 the Metropolitan Company turned out 37,319 gross; the San Francisco Company, 30,000 do; Eureka Company, 30,000 do; and other factories, 10,000 do—the sales of local matches for the same year reached 100,000 gross, stamped, and the amount paid for stamps was $144,000, currency.

Several marble works are comprised among our local industries, with an aggregate production valued at $250,000 per year, employing the regular services of 40 men, who are engaged in making mantels, monuments, grave stones, billiard-table beds, ornaments, etc.

Manufactured stone has recently entered the list of our local productions, and is becoming very popular, being readily molded into any required shape, and possessing qualities equal to the genuine rock. The material manufactured under the Ransome patent, by the Pacific Stone Co. in this city, resembles the best of natural stone, and is highly recommended for building purposes. The ornamental portions of the front of the new building of the First Congregational Church on Post Street, corner of Mason, is composed of pressed stone, manufactured by this company.

The various potteries are doing well, and suffice for local needs in their respective lines. The wares of the Albion Pottery, J. Browell, proprietor, have obtained a wide reputation for usefulness and durability. This gentleman has added many improvements to his works, suggested by a recent visit to the East and Great Britain, and the quality of his wares will compare favorably with those manufactured elsewhere. His sanitary appliances are believed to be superior to all others. See advertising department page 3.

Every description of drain and water pipe is manufactured from cement by Martin Paley, at his Works, corner of Francisco and Taylor streets. Pipes, well seasoned, and of every size, from four inches to two feet in diameter, are kept always on hand, and in quantities to supply orders without delay. See advertisement page 515.

Of boots and shoes there are a large number of makers, employing a great many hands, and producing very excellent wares. This business was trenched upon importations, which have met with a corresponding decline.

In a new country, badly provided with roads, and with long stretches between inhabited places, the art of making saddles becomes a leading necessity, and is always one of the first industries claiming attention. Its prosecution in this city has been on an extensive scale, employing many hands and the use of considerable capital. The number of establishments engaged in manufacturing saddles and harness in San Francisco is about 33, which turn out articles of great variety and superior quality.

Next, in natural order, are factories for the production of vehicles of all sorts, of which large numbers are annually made in this city, employing over three hundred men, and turning out fabrics to the amount of nearly one million of dollars per annum, and supplying almost the entire home demand. All the cars required for domestic horse railroads are now obtained from our own workshops, while a considerable requirement has sprung up from Japan, China, and other foreign countries washed by the Pacific.

In the matter of furniture, we have almost wholly thrown off our long-continued dependence upon Eastern makers; but we are still compelled to import many of the finer and more costly woods used in this industry. The business has largely increased within the year past, and with sufficient success to warrant an early extension. The amount of capital employed is nearly two millions of dollars, with a proportionable working force of men and machinery.

Brewing is one of our most extensively prosecuted lines of business, comprising twenty-four establishments, which jointly produce over 3,000,000 gallons of malt liquors per annum. In this industry California hops have recently acquired a leading reputation. They were formerly esteemed as inferior, but are now admitted to be much better than any imported, and are more valued in Eastern markets as well as our own.

The cigar factories of San Francisco have obtained marked importance, amounting to 149 in number, of which 139 employ Chinese exclusively, and producing in 1871 the enormous quantity of 65,050,000 cigars, besides cigaritos in great numbers. The interior is almost wholly supplied by our local establishments.

A great many persons have embarked their capital in the meat-packing and curing business, with varying success; but it must be confessed that the quality of California prepared bacon, hams, lard, pork and beef is not equal to the imported. There is something unfavorable in the generally high temperature of this climate which compels a resort to refrigerating absolutely necessary. It is hoped that some method will be discovered to render our local products in this line equal to the best obtained from the East or Oregon.

The canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables, has occupied the attention of skill and capital to a considerable extent, and has been attended with sufficient success to warrant a greater development. With the exception of certain superior articles of English and French preparation, our local industries supply all home wants, as well as those of adjacent States and Territories.

Some idea of the extent to which the wooden ware and broom manufactures of San Francisco have reached, may be inferred from the following facts: In 1871, two establishments used 1,850 cords of cedar and sugar-pine, bolts in the composition of pails, tubs and buckets, 645,000 broom handles, and 30,000 syrup kegs.

San Francisco contains eight flouring mills, which turn out annually between 400,000 and 450,000 barrels of superior flour, besides Indian meal, groats, hominy and feed stuffs. They employ a large number of hands and teams, and use heavy amounts of capital. Our progress in this direction has been remarkable as well as eminently successful.

Our sugar refineries are conducted on an extensive scale, having a joint capacity to refine more than double the quantity of sugar consumed on this coast, although our requirements are larger in proportion than those of any other section of the world—amounting in 1871 to 51,130,736 pounds. Our imports of foreign raws for the year specified reached 49,674,000 pounds, a great proportion of which was refined by our local establishments, besides furnishing large supplies of syrup.

A detailed and minute account of all our various manufacturing industries would exhaust infinitely more space than we have at command, and will not be expected in a work of this kind. We can therefore only allude to others of more or less note, such as the manufacture of yeast powders, oil cloths, blank books, and book binding generally, ground coffee and spices, gloves, hats, wearing apparel, musical instruments, jewelry, straw, starch, leather hose and beltings, fireworks, moldings, and an endless number of others, embracing a great variety of industrial pursuits, and employing a large aggregate amount of capital.

Nor do the foregoing statements embrace those branches carried on outside of the city, many of which are of paramount importance—such as the California Powder Works, paper mills, stone quarries, lime and brick kilns, cement mills, potteries, acid factories, and numerous others, necessitating the outlay of large means and the employment of several thousands of operatives, aided by machinery. Nevertheless, we have still abundant room for the display of enterprise and the use of capital in the field of manufacturing industry. Carpet and other works will some day be added to the list, and, in course of time, all the paper required for home use will be made on the Pacific slope, while establishments for the manufacture of small arms and other needed articles will be abundant enough to supply all our own requirements, with a large margin for export.

THE ELECTRICAL CONSTRUCTION CO.—This company, comprised of leading telegraph men and electrical engineers, is rapidly developing the business of manufacturing every kind of electrical machinery, including telegraph instruments, electro-medical machines, batteries, electric machines and fuses for exploding any number of blasts simultaneously, hotel annunciators, fire alarms, burglar alarms, and an infinite variety of novel and very valuable articles in their line. This company also furnishes South America, Mexico and Japan with most of the wires, insulators and other telegraph material used in those countries. They are now perfecting arrangements for manufacturing submarine telegraph cables, with a view to competing with England for the submarine telegraph business of the Pacific, and Asiatic waters.

Their factory and salesroom is at No. 131 Sutter street, where they employ fifteen hands, at present, and will employ double that number as soon as the necessary machinery is erected.

Incorporated 1871; capital, $100,000. Geo. S. Ladd, President; Stephen D. Field, Superintendent.

DIAMOND-POINTED DRILLS.—These drills were first invented and used for rock-drilling in 1860, by Professor Rodolphe Leschot, a civil engineer, resident in Paris, France. He found that a rotating drill, armed with diamond points, could be made to bore holes in rock to great depths, and with a rapidity hitherto unknown. In 1863, letters patent were granted him throughout the continent of Europe and in this country, which letters have, by mesne assignments, become the property of Messrs. A. J. Severance & Co., of this city. This firm also manufactures various styles of drilling machines, of their own invention, which are used for mining, quarrying, shafting, tunneling, grading, prospecting, submarine blasting, boring artesian wells, etc. They are successfully employed throughout this coast and the Eastern States. Offices 14 and 26 Wall Street, New York, and 315 California Street, this city.

BRASS AND BELL FOUNDRY.—The new and extensive works of W. T. Garratt & Co., situated on the corner of Fremont and Natoma streets, San Francisco, are the largest Brass Works on the Pacific coast. W. T. G. & Co., commenced business in San Francisco at a very early day and have steadily increased their facilities and their manufactures are now widely and favorably known. Their present works, (the buildings for which cost about $24,000) occupy a space of 75x137½ feet, and consist of substantial earthquake proof brick buildings of two stories—the lower one being 16 feet and the upper 15 feet in clear height, the buildings being divided into departments as follows: Stock and wareroom, 40x75 feet; brass finishing shop, 40x75 feet; machine shop for heavier work, 37x75 feet; pattern shop, 37x75 feet; foundry, 37x75 feet. The works will accommodate 100 workmen; the foundry being capable of turning out about two tons a week of the smaller kind of castings, and a much larger amount when the work is of a heavier character. The manufactures to be found at these works include church and other bells, brasswork for marine and stationary engines, water gates, steam and water valves and cocks, all kinds of fittings for steam, fire and hydraulic machinery, hose couplings, gongs, steam, vacuum and water gauges, brass tubing, oil pumps and lubricators; and all such articles as may be found or manufactured at a first-class establishment of the kind.

Office at the Works, corner Fremont and Natoma streets.

Water Companies.

SPRING VALLEY WATER WORKS.

The original Spring Valley Water Company was incorporated in June, 1858, and in July, 1861, the water from Islais creek was introduced into the city by the company.

The present organization is formed by a consolidation of the San Francisco City and Spring Valley Water Works Companies. Date of incorporation, January, 1865.

The present works receive their supply from two sources—Lobos and Pillaritos creeks. Lobos creek is a stream of pure, fresh water, emptying into the bay near Point Lobos, which supplies two millions five hundred thousand gallons daily. The distance of the stream from the Plaza is three and a half miles, in a direct line. The water is elevated by four double acting pumps, with a capacity of four millions of gallons daily, propelled by two steam engines of two hundred and fifty horse power each, the distributing reservoirs on the adjacent hills, the highest being three hundred and eight feet above the city base, located at the corner of Hyde and Greenwich streets; the second, which is situated immediately below, at the intersection of Hyde and Francisco streets, is one hundred and forty-five feet above the city base. The capacity of the first is four millions of gallons, and that of the lower, seven millions.

Pillaritos Creek is situated east of the coast range of mountains, distant from San Francisco about fifteen miles, in a southerly direction, and seven hundred feet above the level of the sea.

A large dam has been constructed in the Pillaritos Valley, which is ninety-two feet in height and six hundred feet long, containing one thousand millions of gallons, and is drawn from as required in the city reservoirs. From the east end of tunnel number one, the water is conducted by a flume five by two feet, into a filter and sand-box, in its passage through which it is cleansed from vegetable matter and sediment; it then enters tunnel number two, where the water undergoes another purification, and after passing through thirteen miles of thirty-inch wrought iron pipe, and one mile of forty-inch flume, enters tunnel number three, from whence Lake Honda and the city distributing reservoirs are supplied.

Lake Honda has a capacity of thirty-five millions of gallons, and supplies the city by means of three miles of cast iron mains to the reservoir on the corner of Buchanan and Market streets, which contains two millions of gallons, and was the main distributing reservoir, supplying two-fifths of the city.

The Company has constructed a new reservoir, of fourteen millions of gallons capacity, near Holly Park, called College Hill Reservoir, which is the main distributing reservoir for the lower part of the city. There is also a large reservoir in San Andreas Valley, thirteen miles south of the city, containing four thousand six hundred and fifty millions of gallons. The water level is four hundred and thirty feet above the city base, from which the city will have a never-failing supply of the pure element.

The present amount of pipe laid down in the city proper, is one hundred and thirty miles. Capital stock of the company, $3,000,000, in eighty thousand shares of $100 each.

LAKE TAHOE AND SAN FRANCISCO WATER WORKS.

The rapidly increasing population of San Francisco has caused our citizens to study the momentous question of its water resources. As it is possible that at no distant day the present means of supply may become entirely insufficient for our demands, a number of gentlemen conceived the idea of bringing the waters of Lake Tahoe to this city. To show the vastness of the undertaking, we give the following extent and cost of the work: Lake Tahoe has a superficial area of two hundred and forty square miles, with an average depth of fifteen hundred feet; it is situated in the Sierra Nevada mountains, at an elevation of six thousand feet above the sea, and distant from San Francisco one hundred and fifty miles. The company have constructed a dam on the Truckee river, at the outlet of the lake, and a second four miles below its outlet, near Squaw Valley. From thence the water is to be conveyed by aqueduct to the eastern mouth of the tunnel through the Sierras, and thence by canal along Forest Hill Divide, which includes Michigan Bluff, Bath, Iowa Hill, Wisconsin Hill, Yankee Jim's, Forest Hill, and numerous other mining camps, with an abundant supply of cheap water. The water required for towns and cities will be taken out of the American River at a point above the mining grounds, and run in an open canal, to or near Auburn, and thence by pipe one hundred and twelve miles to San Francisco, supplying on its route Sacramento, Vallejo, Benicia, Stockton, Oakland, etc., and affording along its entire course ample quantities for towns, mines, mills, and agricultural purposes. The capital stock of the company is $20,000,000, divided into twenty thousand shares of $1,000 each. The estimated cost is $10,000,000. The officers are: President and Chief Engineer, A. W. Von Schmidt; Trustees: A. W. Von Schmidt, David Hughes, Robert Simson and Joseph Trench. Office: Pioneer Building, 808 Montgomery Street.

To bring the water to San Francisco, a tunnel four and a half miles will be constructed through the mountain, connecting the lake with the north fork of the American River, through the bed of which the water will be carried about twelve miles.

NEW WATER COMPANIES.

During the past few years several new enterprises have been organized to supply this city and vicinity with water, but beyond the simple announcement of their incorporation, with the exception of the Lake Tahoe Company, but little progress has been made in their operations.

DEALERS IN

And Publishers of GREEN'S LAND PAPER,

COR. OF MONTGOMERY AND MARKET STS.

To those who wish to dispose of any kind of landed property, we offer facilities that cannot be found anywhere in the United States. We have an agent in every principal town in California, and reliable connections in the other States; and when a tract of land is left with us for sale, we print descriptions, terms, etc., and send to each of our agents, so we have a large number of active men interested in making a speedy sale.

For an advance fee of $7.50, we print and send out these descriptions, and advertise the land during the time it is left with us in GREEN'S LAND PAPER, which has a larger country circulation than any other paper printed in California.
